Il Duce Scoffs At U. S. War Debt Claim

Tearfully Mrs. E. H. Easterling of Gloucester, Miss., pleads for recognition by her son, Horace, 26, a victim of amnesia, who wandered into a hospital at Atlanta, Ga., and begged nurses to help him recall his identity. His mother seemed to be a stranger to him and he repeated over and over: "Sorry, I don't know you."

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 24.—Many of the permanent inmates of this quaint little old town in the foothills of the Adirondacks, have moved, or are making ready to move, to temporary habitation for the next 30 days.

It is a curious hegira that has been taking place here annually for upwards of 75 years. The horse racing season opens in Saratoga next week, and it is the custom of the Saratogians to rent their homes for the period of the races to the visitors.

Some visitors have rented the same homes for 20 years or more. Some take a different house every season, according to the changing family requirements for space, and also perhaps according to the changing family purse. We know Saratoga visitors who have occupied 10 different houses in as many years.

The rental prices vary with reference to the size, and desirability of the home, and the location. The visitors refer to all houses as "cottages." You can get a small, comfortable house for $250, which is about the minimum, or one the size of an orphan asylum, and not so comfortable, for $3,000.

The highest rental we ever heard of here was $10,000 for a most elaborate farm house just outside the city limits. We would guess that the average rental for a nice home is around $700, which probably goes far toward standing off the annual upkeep for the owner.

The rich old racing families, like the various branches of the Whitneys, own their houses in Saratoga, which in many cases have come down to the present generation from a racing an-

TWO ARRESTED FOR AUTOMOBILE THEFT

SHREVEPORT, La., July 24.—(AP)—Local police today reported the arrest of two men who allegedly are wanted at Duncan, Okla., for theft of an automobile in which they were riding when picked up on suspicion here this morning.

The prisoners gave their names as Walter Calhoun, 19, of Wichita Falls, and Boyd McLemore, 24, of Addington, Okla. The local police said they were advised by Duncan authorities that the suspects were wanted here.

The car belonged to J. R. Dewick of Duncan, Okla., police here said. Federal authorities are investigating the prisoners, police said.

ENGLAND EXPECTS DIVORCE DELUGE

Liberalization Of Laws Will Make Thousands In Country Eligible

LONDON, July 24.—(AP)—Liberalization of England's divorce laws made it probable today that more divorce court judges will be needed to handle the impending flood of cases.

Regarded by the British press as the biggest change in England's social laws in many years, the new divorce measure led high court lawyers to estimate they would have 50 per cent more work to do after January 1, when the law becomes operative.

The new law, enacted by the house of commons Friday, will establish desertion without cause for three or more years, incurable insanity for five years and cruelty as new grounds for divorce.

Hitherto, the only ground for divorce in English law was adultery.

The formality of royal assent will be given next week. The law was sponsored by A. P. Herbert, author-legislator.

Lawyers said they believed most of the 22,000 applicants for legal separations on grounds of cruelty and desertion last year will be eligible now for divorce.

E. S. P. Haynes, a supporter of the new law, said that only "prodigious expansion" of the king's proctor's staff would make it possible to detect collusion in divorce cases.

The press began clamoring for creation of at least 10 more judges to help the three now trying to cope with divorce cases and to accelerate the procedure of divorce.

The Archbishop of York, high-ranking Englishman churchman, said he had no comment to make on the bill. His grace indicated the church was

Four Run Out, Happily After Spending Six And One-Half Years In Jail

AGREEMENT REACHED IN TRIALS AGAINST NEGROES

Only One Receiving Death Verdict Expected To Get Clemency From Governor

DECATUR, Ala., July 24.—(AP)—Freedom for four "Scottsboro" negroes and penitentiary terms for two others came in swift succession here today, and a source competent to speak of the famous gang rape case said "this is the end of these trials."

After more than six years in Alabama jails, four defendants were released here at noon.

Laughing and smiling, Onel Montgomery, Willie Roberson, Eugene Williams and Roy Wright, ran out of the Morgan county jail and were driven out a highway leading to Nashville. They were accompanied by two state highway patrolmen and by the Scottsboro defense chief, Samuel S. Leibowitz.

A few minutes earlier, a jury returned a guilty verdict and fixed punishment at 75 years imprisonment for Charles Weems, and Ozie Powell pleaded guilty to assault with intent to murder, and was sentenced to 20 years.

The rape charges were dropped in Powell's case, as they were against the four freed. Powell was sentenced for an attack on Deputy Sheriff Edgar Blalock in January, 1936, made

PHONE HEARING WILL BE SHORT

Only Few Days Expected To Be Required To Take Testimony

BATON ROUGE, La., July 24.—(AP)—The hearing of the Louisiana public service commission beginning Monday into the question of further reductions of rates charged by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company in Louisiana is expected to last only a few days.

The public service commission has a heavy docket of 29 cases set to be heard at its regular hearings scheduled next Thursday, July 29. Among the cases up for hearing at the regular session are the application of the L. & A. railroad for discontinuance of service between Minden and Winfield and that of the Missouri Pacific railroad for discontinuance of service between Alexandria and Kinder.

On Monday, the telephone company is required to show cause why it should not further reduce phone rates charged in the state.

The late United States Senator Huey P. Long, as commission attorney, obtained state-wide phone rate reduc-

PARCHMAN PRISON FUGITIVE CAUGHT

SHREVEPORT, La., July 24.—(AP)—Ras. D. Hardy, Dallas, Tex., escaped convict from the Parchman, Miss., state prison, will be returned to Parchman early in the week, according to Police Chief E. E. Norvell. Hardy was arrested Wednesday afternoon in a local railroad yard by Police Detectives Howard Wimberly and C. O. Crabtree and held for investigation in the city jail.

He was identified by his fingerprints as an escaped convict. Hardy escaped from the prison last Sunday after serving only a few weeks of a 20-year sentence for robbery. He effected his escape by making a pair of trousers from a bed sheet and dressed in this garb walked out of the prison camp. Guards mistook him for a visitor.

EDITORIAL SEEN AS WAR THREAT; DEMOCRACIES OF WORLD ATTACKED

Nations Obstructing Recognition Of Belligerent Rights For Rebels Scored

ASSERTS FRANCO FORCES NOT INSURGENT FACTION

Article Attacks As 'Pretension' Claim Valencia Real Seat Of Government

MILAN, Italy, July 24.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini's own newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia, today listed numerous international "fictions" it said some day would be "overwhelmed by reality."

Among them was the contention of the United States that World war debts still are collectable.

Persons close to the government in Rome interpreted "reality"—which the newspaper went on to say always had "had a single brave name for which there was no substitute"—to mean war, with its general upheaval.

They declared there was no doubt the vigorous style of the newspaper's 750-word editorial on "Post-War Make Believe" was that of Il Duce himself.

Informed persons saw a slap at the Democratic powers in this statement:

Policies which ought to be realistic and therefore face problems as they exist become the play of irreality and sophism, sometimes disguised in the moth-eaten garments of immortal principles.

The editorial scourged nations which would obstruct the recognition of belligerent rights for Spanish insurgents who, it said, control two-thirds of Spain.

The article attacked as "pretension" the insistence that Generalissimo Francisco Franco was an insurgent general and that Valencia was the real seat of the Spanish government.

Referring to war debts, Il Popolo said:

"The people continue to pretend they believe these debts will be paid one day. Now, everyone knows this is materially, and above all morally, impossible. Nevertheless when the fateful dates June 15 and December 15 come around the European governments inform America they find it impossible to pay. America takes note of

CHINA SITUATION AGAIN OMINOUS

Japanese Army Leaders Charge Foes Digging In Instead Of Withdrawing

PEIPING, July 24.—(AP)—Japanese army leaders tonight declared the north China situation, which for two weeks has kept China and Japan on the verge of war, again had become ominous because Chinese troops were not leaving this area rapidly enough.

They charged that units the Chinese had agreed to withdraw actually were digging in for resistance. Peaceful settlement of the crisis, which yesterday appeared in process of being carried out, had struck a dangerous snag.

Twice in the past 24 hours, said Domei, the Japanese news agency, the Japanese command had warned Chinese leaders they must speed up withdrawal of the "anti-Japanese" 37th division.

TUMOR TAKEN FROM DRUGGIST'S BRAIN

ATLANTA, July 24.—(AP)—Surgeons removed a tumor from the brain of Horace Easterling, 26-year-old Holly Bluff, Miss., druggist today in an effort to restore his memory lost a week ago.

One physician said "he stood the operation well and we found what we thought we would find. We will not know whether his memory will return as a result for perhaps several days."

Easterling had not regained consciousness late tonight, but he was reported in "good condition."

He wandered into Crawford W. Long hospital here a week ago and asked attendants to help him find out who he was. A sister, reading a newspaper account of the case, came to the hospital and established his identity but he did not recognize her.

FUGITIVES TAKEN BACK TO GEORGIA

Monroe Carpenters Hope To Prove Innocence Of Murder Charge

Expressing confidence in their ability to clear themselves of a 19-year-old murder charge for which they were sentenced to life imprisonment on a Georgia chain gang from which they escaped after serving about a year, B. F. Jackson, 73-year-old Monroe carpenter, and his son Jack Jackson, whose real identities were revealed last Sunday to Sheriff Milton Coverdale as F. M. and G. M. Wyatt, Saturday left the Ouachita parish jail in the custody of Captain Morrison and Officer Tom Jackson of Wheeler county, Ga., to return to the chain gang from which they fled 18 years ago.

The two men, however, were not aware that the principal witness upon whom they relied to clear them died some years ago in the Milledgeville Ga., penitentiary where he was serving a life sentence for murder. The Georgia officers did not tell their prisoners of the death of S. L. Fulford, father of J. L. Fulford who,

School To Receive Library Grant Of $3,000 From Carnegie Foundation

Announcement was made Saturday by Dean C. C. Colvert, of the Northeast Center of Louisiana State university, that the local institution has been selected as one of 92 junior colleges to receive a grant of $3,000 each from the Carnegie corporation of New York for additional books for the library.

The money will be available at the rate of $1,000 a year for the next three years, Dean Colvert said. Early in September, a list of books will be prepared and ordered to be paid for out of this special fund.

The Carnegie corporation has for some years granted money for the purchase of books for college libraries and the grant to Northeast Center with no special provisions or "strings" attached, is in line with past donations.

There are 528 junior colleges in the United States and out of the number, as stated, 92 were selected to receive added financial library support. Friends of the local institution Saturday expressed pleasure that it was sufficiently fortunate to be included in the number selected.

Miss Sue Hefley will again serve as librarian, Dean Colvert said.

PURCHASE OF LONG RESIDENCE FAVORED

BATON ROUGE, La., July 24.—(AP)—Governor Richard Leche said today he thought it "would be a pretty good idea" for the state to purchase the New Orleans Audubon boulevard home of the late Senator Huey P. Long.

A bill may be introduced at the next session of the legislature providing for purchase of the residence as a state museum, he said.

"I don't know whether or not you would call it a shrine. It'll probably be more like a museum," the governor said.

Things would be put in there that had personal connection with the senato, some of his papers and mementoes.

"A lot of people have been visiting Senator Long's home down there and I think it would be a pretty good idea for the state to buy it.

"It would be something like Washington's home at Mount Vernon, Jefferson's home at Monticello and Jackson's Hermitage near Nashville."

Mrs. Rose McConnell Long, the senator's widow, who served out his unexpired term in the United States senate, is building a home here and is understood to be anxious to dispose of the New Orleans residence.

WAGE AND HOUR BILL MAY BE PUT THROUGH BEFORE SESSION CLOSES

Barkley Says This Measure Will Be Passed By Senate This Week

HOUSE SLOWER, HOWEVER, IN ADVANCING PROPOSAL

Low Cost Housing And New Farm Plan Likely To Await Next Term

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—A rush for adjournment seemed today to threaten the five-point program that President Roosevelt has laid out for this session of congress.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, freshly crowned with the laurels of Democratic leadership, traveled down the Potomac with President Roosevelt to figure out with him what might be salvaged from the presidential program. His return to Washington will bring new thoughts on the subject.

As it stood, however, the clamor was rising for adjournment as soon as the greatly modified court reform bill has been passed. Republicans spoke strongly for such a step. Many important Democrats felt likewise. They spoke of this bill, or that one, being put over to the next session.

Representative Woodrum of Virginia, frequently spoken of as a man who talks for the administration in the house, said that any effort to jam through a heavy program now would meet wide opposition, that if a broad group of measures were insisted upon "congress will still be here when the frost is on the pumpkin."

The president has listed as "desirable" for this session bills to fix minimum wages and maximum hours, to reorganize government departments, to provide low cost housing, to plug tax loopholes, and to set up a new farm plan.

Senator Barkley has said that wage and hour legislation would pass the senate by late Tuesday. The house labor committee is still trying to pit

NEW OIL FIELDS FOUND IN STATE

Discoveries Reported In Plaquemines And St. Charles Parishes

NEW ORLEANS, July 24.—(AP)—Discovery of two new oil fields, both near New Orleans, marked the Louisiana oil development program during the week ended Friday, the Louisiana state conservation department announced today.

One of the new fields discovered is near Venice in Plaquemines parish on the west side of the Mississippi river about 60 miles below New Orleans. The discovery well is being produced by the Tidewater Associated Oil company and is on land owned by the Manhattan Land and Fruit company. Officials of the conservation department said Saturday that the initial daily production of the discovery well showed about 650 barrels.

The new Plaquemines field is officially known as the Venice field and the discovery well is called Manhattan Land and Fruit company No. 3.

The other field discovered was on a deep-seated salt dome on the Pine island prospect in St. Charles parish. Opening of the field was made by the Amerada Petroleum corporation and Louisiana Land and Exploration company. The discovery well, which is near Paradise and which was reported to be producing 60 barrels an hour earlier in the week, had not been officially completed Saturday. The new producer is in section 13-15S-20E.

The field, name of producing company, name of well and the initial daily production of other producers in proven areas of the state follow in order:

Basile, Acadia parish, Continental Oil company, Andreas Veronie No. B-2, 214 barrels; Charenton, St. Mary parish, Pan American Producing company, South Coast Corp., No. 1, 594.48; Dog Lake, Terrebonne parish, Texas company, Dog Lake No. 5, 1450; Evangeline, Acadia parish, Superior Oil company, two wells, Iowa-Jennings No. 2, 534.60, and A. P. Morest No. 1, 502.20.

East Hackberry, Cameron parish, Texas company, State East Hackberry No. 22, 700; West Hackberry, Cameron parish, W. T. Burton, Roy Lewis et al. No. 2, 369.84; Iowa, Calcasieu parish, Shell Petroleum Corp., F. Heyd No. 26, 585; Lisbon, Claiborne parish, Standard Oil company of Louisiana, F. B. King No. 2, 744; Lockport, Calcasieu parish, Magnolia Petroleum company, Frieberg and Wolf No. 6, 650; Rodessa, Caddo parish, Standard Oil company of Louisiana, two wells, Sara Kaempfer et al No. 4, 888 barrels; and Emma J. Parker No. B-1, 1,176.

The daily estimated average production of oil in south Louisiana during the week was estimated by the department at 173,400 barrels.

Twenty-three permits for drilling operations were approved during the week, the department announced.

Each of the following applicants received one permit unless otherwise specified:

Superior Oil company, Acadia parish; D. E. Killam and M. W. Smith, Caddo parish; R. W. Norton, Caddo; Standard Oil of Louisiana, Caddo; Dee Davenport, Calcasieu parish; Shell Petroleum corporation, Calcasieu; Austin B. Taylor, Calcasieu; W. T. Burton, Cameron; Harry Hanbury, Claiborne, two; Lyons and Neely, Claiborne; A. O. Olson, Claiborne, two; Sells Petroleum, Inc., Claiborne, and Standard Oil company of Louisiana, Claiborne.

Schlicher Producing company, Evangeline; Amereda Petroleum corporation and Louisiana Land and Exploration company, Lafourche; Texas company, Lafourche; United Gas Public Service company, Morehouse, two; W. J. Hunter, Red River; Pan American Producing company, St. Mary, and Southern Carbon company, Union.

WAGE AND HOUR

such a measure into shape for action on that side of the capitol. It will work afternoons next week to get it ready to bring up during the following week. Some leaders in the house say they would like to see it go over until next session to permit further study.

Government reorganization has not been heard of in some time. The joint committee set up to study the presidential proposal will meet Monday or Tuesday to choose a new chairman. That post was vacated by the death of Senator Robinson of Arkansas. Senator Byrnes of South Carolina is spoken of as a likely choice. Not too much enthusiasm has been shown on that proposal from the beginning.

Behind the wage and hour bill on the senate side stands the low cost housing plan. Republicans are arguing, however, that once the court compromise has gone through, both this and the wage and hour plan will be pushed aside in the rush to adjourn. Not much talk has been heard of that measure in the house recently.

The study by a joint committee of methods used in dodging taxes goes ahead next week. Some members already have suggested that the worst spots shown by the investigation be patched up at this session and the others left for action next year when a general tax revision will be necessary.

Quite a few, among them Speaker Bankhead, have said they were anxious for passage of new farm legislation at this session. Yet, the opposition of senate farm leaders, coupled with the desire of many in the house for a slow-paced study of the measure before committees does not seem to augur precipitate action.

Some saw a forecast of early adjournment in the situation of Vice-President Garner. Mrs. Garner did not come back to Washington with him. She is his secretary. The reasoning was that if congress was to be here long, she would have come back with him.

ORIGIN OF RICH TREASURE PROBED

President Of Panama Orders Investigation Into Death Of Original Owner

PANAMA, Panama, July 24.—(AP)—Under orders of President Juan D. Arosemena, authorities today sifted tales of a $3,000,000 treasure-trove and circumstances of the death of the man who started them.

President Arosemena ordered the superior tribunal of the first judicial district to make an immediate investigation "of everything that has occurred from the very beginning" of the reported discovery of a gold cache in an ancient mine of Chiriqui province.

A Captain Sagel, one of the first to attempt a check of the story by Gaston Johannes Van Steck, a French prospector, reported Van Steck was found mortally wounded in the tunnel where he had said the bullion was cached.

There was no sign of gold in the tunnel.

President Arosemena also ordered an inquiry "to establish the cause" of Van Steck's death.

Sagel said he went to the abandoned mine with Van Steck and two others on Tuesday. When they reached the tunnel, the Frenchman said "we will now go to see where the gold is."

However, the prospector entered alone while Sagel, the governor of Chiriqui province and Van Steck's helper waited at the mouth of the mine.

Presently, Sagel related, they heard a sound like a stick breaking. The three ran in and found Van Steck with a bullet wound in his right temple and a revolver at his side. He died three hours later at his camp three miles from the mine.

Sagel searched the tunnel for gold but found none. A corroborating statement was given by Alfred Veser, Van Steck's helper.

Official "confirmation" earlier in the week of the Van Steck claim was attributed to "misinterpretation" of a message sent by Sagel to the police chief at El Volcan.

cestry that flourished in the great days when the California mining millionaires brought their horses here to compete against the east and the south, and when "the Spa" was the seat of American fashion and frivolity.

The rich keep their Saratoga houses closed and in charge of caretakers for all but the month of August. Just now there is a great flurry of activity around these houses, with automobiles discharging cargoes of servants, and with a terrific airing out, and dusting up, going on against the arrival of the owners.

These houses of the rich are not especially elaborate, save perhaps in size. They are furnished no more expensively, and in some cases not half as comfortably, as the average upstate home of a family in fair circumstances. From the old days of great display, Saratoga has changed to a place of almost ostentatious simplicity on the part of the rich. It is our guess that the rich feel that they are more or less rusticating here.

THERE IS NOTHING complicated about renting a house for the season in Saratoga, except digging up the required dough. You just get hold of a real estate agent, tell him exactly what you want, and how much you are disposed to pay, and the chances are he will have your house in 24 hours.

You do not have to bother even to come to Saratoga in advance, though unless you are experienced in house renting here, and are familiar with locations, it is not a bad idea to look around. In general, however, a Saratoga real estate agent is unlikely to stick you with a bad bargain. He wants your business and your recommendation another season.

He will dig up a cook and any other help you require, and the cook is apt to be one of these upstate, middle-aged lady cooks who can do more tricks about a cook stove than Cardini with a pack of pasteboards. These cooks average around $20 per week for the month, but when a transient reflects that he is perhaps depriving some worthy husband of the magnificent benefits of her culinary arts for that length of time, the wage seems little enough.

This renting out of houses in Saratoga for the renting season has become so systematized that about all a visitor has to do is notify the agent of the day of his arrival, and lo, and behold, his house will be all ready, and a piping hot dinner spread as he steps across the threshold.

He does not have to bother about the tradespeople, or the delivery of the daily papers, or much of anything else. The original occupants of the house remove only their personal belongings, and if they show up at all during the tenure of the visitor, will be found, in the main, friendly and helpful.

WE HAVE OFTEN wondered where these Saratogians go after they rent out their houses. We had a vague theory that they probably move in with in-laws somewhere around town, or perhaps in the surrounding hills, but we were not quite sure about that and it worried us.

We hated to think of some of these nice people wandering about without habitation in August while some stranger enjoyed the comforts of their homes, so we asked a householder about this the other day.

"Well," he said, "I'll tell you. I take a nice little vacation. I go to a hotel."

known by the name of Tompkins, was found murdered near Monroe 16 years ago. Tompkins was the third man convicted with the two Jacksons for the murder of the negro in Georgia. Both father and son claimed that Tompkins confessed to the crime just before he died. They told how Fulford's father visited them in a woods near the prison camp from which they had escaped and gave them money to get away, stating he knew the two men were innocent and that he knew the real murderer of the negro.

Captain Morrison told Sheriff Coverdale that some years after the crime for which Fulford's son and the two Monroe men were convicted, the elder Fulford was arrested on a charge of murder, tried and convicted and sentenced to life at Milledgeville. During his imprisonment, Fulford was stricken with paralysis and while being bathed by a fellow prisoner was drowned when the prisoner left the water running in the bathtub.

The two Monroe carpenters were confident they could clear themselves of the Georgia murder charge and expressed their belief that they would soon return here where they have been living since 1921.

The older Jackson surrendered to Sheriff Coverdale because, he said, he and his son had been quarreling and the latter had threatened to turn him out of their home. The son was arrested shortly after Jackson told his story and readily admitted his true identity and that he was a fugitive from Georgia.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. "We accept the challenge to encourage the election of more qualified women to congress and to state and local legislative bodies. We will continue to be pathfinders in new vocational fields for women and to point out the problem of existing fields."

MRS. ROBINSON URGED FOR RACE

Faction In Arkansas Resents Committee's Failure To Call Democratic Election

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 24.—(AP)—The Arkansas Democrat said today that Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson, widow of the late majority leader in the senate, was being urged to offer as a candidate in the special election which will be called to fill the senate vacancy.

A life-long Democrat, she would, if she agreed to run, have to offer as an independent in the election against Governor Carl E. Bailey, who was designated as Democratic nominee for the unexpired term.

The state committee overrode demands from some factions that it call a primary, rather than nominate itself. The issue caused a rift in party ranks.

Mrs. Robinson, the Democrat, asserted, "is considering urgent requests to permit submission of her name" in the special general election, tentatively fixed for September 14.

No statement came direct from Mrs. Robinson, who has been in seclusion at her home here since funeral services for Senator Robinson last Sunday. During 40 years of married life she was an active campaigner at the side of her husband.

The Democrat said that "several other prominent Democrats are considering entering the race against Governor Bailey." Mentioned in this connection were Albert Walls, attorney of Lonoke, and Congressman John L. McClellan of Malvern.

FIVE WILL FACE

while the negroes were being transferred from Decatur to Birmingham.

A death decree still is on the record against one "Scottsboro" defendant, Clarence Norris, and two others are under prison sentences, Andy Wright 99 years, and Heywood Patterson, 75 years.

It was predicted by a high source the defense "will drop the appeals in the Heywood Patterson and Andy Wright cases, and the governor will extend clemency to Clarence Norris."

Thus the source, which declined to be quoted directly, foresaw the end of the case, which began March 25, 1932, when the nine negroes were taken from a freight train at Paint Rock, Ala., and accused of attacking Mrs. Victoria Price and Ruby Bates. The women claimed they became the victims of a gang rape after they caught the train to return to their Huntsville, Ala., homes, after a trip in search of work.

Prosecution of the case during the six intervening years has cost the state between $50,000 and $75,000, according to Alabama Attorney General Albert A. Carmichael.

A prepared statement, issued by Assistant Attorney General Thomas S. Lawson, Solicitor Melvin Hutson of Decatur and Solicitor H. G. Bailey of the Scottsboro circuit, said the prosecution staff considered Roberson and Montgomery innocent and would release Williams and Roy Wright, brother of Andy Wright, because they were juveniles at the time of the alleged crime and "in view of the fact they have been in jail for six and one-half years."

In vivid contrast with the original trials at Scottsboro, Ala., in 1931, the court room was virtually empty when the Weems jury came in at 11 a.m. to begin the most eventful 30 minutes of the six-year-history of the case.

At Scottsboro, troops guarded the court room and hundreds tried vainly for seats.

The Weems jury was the eleventh to hear the evidence in the "Scottsboro" case. All but one returned verdicts of guilty, and that, the Roy Wright jury at Scottsboro in 1931, failed to agree.

Twice the United States supreme court set aside death sentences, first because the defendants were "without benefit of adequate counsel" in the original trials, and later holding negroes were systematically excluded from the juries which handled the case.

The latter ruling brought changes in jury methods in many deep south states.

Negroes were drawn in the jury panel for each of the last series of trials, but none served.

Leibowitz, worn by the strain of nearly two weeks in a sweltering court room, was jubilant after the cases were dropped. "No statement," he told newspapermen as he left Decatur.

PHONE HEARING

tions of approximately $650,000 annually, Southern Bell, losing an appeal to the Louisiana supreme court, has taken an appeal to the United States supreme court.

The late Long's brother, Earl K. Long, present lieutenant-governor of Louisiana, will act as the public service commission attorney in the new rate case.

Wade O. Martin, chairman of the commission, has estimated that the new proposed cut, if effected, would approximate $500,000 annual reduction in rates.

Martin suggested that any new cut be applied to rates charged outside New Orleans since, he said, rates in that city already are below those of cities of comparable size in other parts of the country.

James P. O'Connor, Jr., who with John S. Patton are the other members of the commission, took issue publicly with Martin with the statement that he would see that New Orleans received its share of any new reduction in rates.

Martin, in announcing some time ago the new attempt to reduce state telephone rates, said that increased use of telephones in Louisiana in the past year increased the phone company's revenues to a point where it could afford to lower present rates.

COUPLE IN BERLIN SENT TO GUILLOTINE

BERLIN, July 24.—(AP)—Two residents of an unspecified border district were guillotined today, convicted of betraying military secrets to some foreign power.

The pair, Joseh Michnia, 28, and Paul Matischek, 27, were accused in testimony before the people's court of having made regular deliveries of information on troop movements and "defense measures in the border area" to a foreign customs officer on the frontier near their homes.

passengers on trains of the Peiping-Hankow railway, on which normal service had just been restored after two weeks. As a result service again was suspended.

Japanese headquarters at Tientsin charged that troops of the central Chinese government were pouring into southern Hopeh province, which Japan declares is a violation of a 1935 north China agreement.

Non-Japanese authorities expressed belief these alarming accounts were circulated in an effort to justify further enlargement of Japan's north China garrison, which has been swelled to about 16,000 by arrivals in the past two weeks.

The recent truce agreement called for both sides to withdraw troops from the recent "front" along the Yungting river west of Peiping, but a tour of the area showed Japanese still holding their positions there.

Two companies of infantry and machine gunners were solidly dug in on a sand dune near Wanpinghsie, scene of the heaviest flighting in the recent clash.

Japanese sentries were stationed along the road from Peiping to the "front" and at least four Japanese companies were strung out along the roadway, many of the men obviously suffering from the intense heat.

INVENTOR OF FLAME THROWER SUCCUMBS

BUDAPEST, July 24.—(AP)—Gabor Szakacs, 44, inventor of a flame thrower used by the central powers during the World war, died in poverty yesterday after a kidney operation.

He was credited with inventing 40 new devices used by Germany and Austria during the World war. They included a machine gun and a steel-piercing bullet.

Szakacs was believed wealthy, but police said his only presentable suit of clothing was in pawn.

DIES AT WHEEL

SHREVEPORT, La., July 24.—(AP)—Walker W. Williams, 43, employe of the Shreveport streets and parks department, died at the wheel of a truck he was driving when stricken with a heart attack at noon today. Williams slumped at the wheel and the truck ran into a tree at a street intersection. He is survived by a widow and son.

INSURGENTS TAKE

lentlessly attacked again and, official reports tonight said, entered the town.

The government said many Moors were in the insurgent ranks.

Heavy fighting was still going on tonight in Brunete, government advices said, as the insurgents strove to drive the defenders completely out of the town. Casualties were high.

An insurgent fighting plane was reported shot down in a 20-minute air battle over la Albericia airfield. Twenty government warplanes took off and engaged six insurgent bombers, with 21 fighting planes protecting them.

The fighting in Brunete continued far into the night, with government forces struggling desperately to drive the insurgents back to their former positions.

Insurgents attacked from a semi-circular front southwest of Brunete and south of Quijorna, to which town the government spearhead extended in its drive more than two weeks ago.

Brunete is the tip of the government's south-pointing "thumb." Loss of it would endanger the whole salient and the men and munitions Miaja's troops have massed inside. A successful government advance from Brunete would aim at Navalcarnero, the insurgents' supply and communication base for the siege.

Insurgent troops, attacking at small objectives rather than risk a large-scale offensive on the strongly defended government lines, have localized the fighting all week.

They have struck, however, at all sides of the government salient dipping southeast from Valdemorillo and southwest from Villafranca del Castillo, to Brunete.

Government commanders asserted their forces held all their positions except for a few outlying lines.

The insurgent supply road north from Navalcarnero to Brunete was heavily shelled and bombed from the air because of reports that insurgents have been accumulating large stores of munitions and cannon along it.

Government officers said the bombardments also struck heavy insurgent troop reinforcements moving up from Navalcarnero.

Six government airplanes bombed the Usera and Villaverde sectors of the siege line south of Madrid. The explosions in insurgent positions could be seen from rooftops in the capital, followed by bursts of machine gun and rifle fire.

Six persons were reported killed and 20 wounded in a heavy insurgent air raid on Tortosa, in eastern Spain.

"The paradox is, that America, after having invented the league for external use, has always energetically refused to take any part in it. The father abandoned his creature as soon as it was born and the foundling began its life with the mark of this permanent unhappiness."

Refusal of some nations to recognize the Italian Ethiopian empire also drew the editorial's fire.

NEW COURT BILL BEING PREPARED

Judiciary Committee Foregoes Week-End Holiday To Work On Measure

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—The senate judiciary committee, foregoing its customary week-end holiday, worked on a six-point program today to speed up the action of lower federal courts.

Committee members said they would burnish off the rough corners of their legislation Monday, and hand it to the senate late next week as a substitute for the president's original court bill.

Their tentative draft did not even refer to the supreme court. Senate leaders gave up their attempt to reorganize that tribunal when they abandoned the president's bill.

In the house, however, some administration supporters revived proposals for limiting the supreme court's powers to declare federal laws unconstitutional.

Asserting that 80 per cent of his colleagues favored his plan, Representative Dies, Democrat, Texas, suggested a constitutional amendment authorizing congress to reinstate by a two-thirds vote any act invalidated by the court.

A similar proposal was advanced by Representative Beiter, Democrat, New York, with the further stipulation that congress might not over-ride the court's decision until after one election has intervened.

In that way, he argued, the people indirectly would pass upon the court's action, since "every candidate for congress would have to commit himself publicly for or against the court's veto."

Dies' friends said they hoped to force action on the proposed amendment at this session, despite indications from the administration that it had shelved all plans for changing the court's membership or authority.

Such an amendment was expected to gain strong support from the very senators who fought the president's court bill to a stand still.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, a leader in that fight, introduced an amendment almost identical with Beiter's early in the session. Some of the other opponents of the administration's court measure said they would support any plan to reorganize the judiciary by amendment rather than legislation.

Senate leaders said privately they thought such an amendment might be speedily approved at the next session, but predicted the president would not attempt to push it through now.

In drafting their substitute court bill members of the senate judiciary committee stuck close to their verbal agreement with administration chiefs.

The measure would provide for:

1. Direct appeal to the supreme court in any lower court case involving the constitutionality of an act of congress.

2. Intervention of the attorney general in any such case.

3. Assignment of extra judges to over-burdened district courts by the senior circuit judge in each circuit.

4. Recommendations by the attorney general for the appointment of new district judges on a basis of need, not age.

5. Consideration of constitutional questions in lower tribunals by a panel of three judges. Any district judge, acting alone, now may issue injunctions forbidding the enforcement of federal law he deems unconstitutional.

6. Permission to resign on full pay after ten years' service for judges of administrative tribunals, such as the court of customs and patent appeals.

A seventh provision will be added Monday by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho. It will be designed, he said, to eliminate "widespread abuses" in the reorganization of bankrupt corporations.

TWO INJURED WHEN FREIGHTS COLLIDE

ATLANTA, Tex., July 24.—(AP)—Two persons were injured, one probably fatally, at 4:30 o'clock this morning when two freight trains collided at a switch at West Atlanta.

Walter Thompson, 50, of New Orleans, received a fractured skull, a back wound and leg injuries. He is expected to die. I. B. Edwards, 25, of Mineral Wells, suffered bruises and leg sprains.

The collision resulted from the misunderstanding of switchman's signals, it was reported. The two injured men were riding on an oil car. A car loaded with cement was demolished and 12 other cars were damaged.

The injured men were taken to the Texas and Pacific hospital at Marshall.

TWO METHODIST COLLEGES CLOSE

Whitworth And Grenada Schools Will Consolidate With Millsaps

LAUREL, Miss., July 24.—(AP)—Closing of two Methodist church colleges and their consolidation with Millsaps college, Jackson, was announced here today by the Rev. J. F. Campbell, pastor of the Laurel First Methodist church and a member of the conference board of Christian education and of the Whitworth college board of trustees.

Colleges affected are Whitworth college, Brookhaven, and Grenada college, Grenada. The retrenchment step was taken at a joint meeting of the Mississippi and North Mississippi conference boards of Christian education and the trustees of both Whitworth and Grenada colleges.

Mr. Campbell said those attending the meeting were of the opinion that the resources of the three Methodist schools should be combined into one big college. Millsaps college, which will be co-educational and will be a four-year school of higher learning.

In the past, Millsaps has been a four-year school but girl students were not permitted to enter until their junior year unless residing in Jackson.

Grenada college, founded 97 years ago, will suspend operations immediately. The property will be sold, the debts paid and the endowment and equipment will be turned over to Millsaps college. Mr. Campbell said, however, that Whitworth college will operate the coming year as a part of Millsaps college and students who attend there will finish freshman and sophomore years. It was founded in 1858 and was the successor of Elizabeth academy, established in 1818.

Mr. Campbell said citizens of Jackson promised to build a new dormitory at Millsaps college and the two Mississippi conferences will build another before the opening of the 1938-39 school session.

STUDENT THINKS GAS 'KILLS' MASK

Believes He Has Perfected Poison Which Makes Protection Useless

AMES, Ia., July 24.—(AP)—J. Leon Prenn, 23, curly-haired chemistry student at Iowa State college, believes he has perfected a "poison gas" which destroys gas masks as efficiently as it kills human beings.

Prenn, whose home is in New York City, holds a commission as second lieutenant in the United States army ordnance department. He believes his discovery will be of great benefit to the army in time of war.

The gas can be manufactured cheaply from the waste products of copper and zinc smelters, oil refineries and common salt, he said. Prenn filed a thesis of his experiments with the college library as a requirement for a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering. O. R. Swaney, head of the college's chemical engineering division, approved the thesis.

Prenn said the gas was a combination of mustard gas and phosgene, two lethal weapons of the World war, plus an unnamed ingredient which removes the soda-lime element used in all present day gas masks.

The soda-lime, he said, neutralizes the acidity of gases drawn into gas masks before they are filtered through a carbon layer to remove the poison.

Without the soda-lime in the mask, Prenn said, the poison gas would reach the lungs more quickly, causing death.

Prenn said his experiment was started to find a use for the millions of tons of waste sulphur dioxide gas cast into the air by copper and zinc smelters.

He averred that since the United States has the only large deposits of sulphur and sulphur dioxide in the world sufficiently isolated to permit the manufacture of such a gas, there seemed little chance for any other nation to make use of the process.

CLUES EXHAUSTED IN DEATH OF PHYSICIAN

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 24.—(AP)—Police investigating in the slaying of Dr. George W. Webster ran up against a blank wall today with the statement of Deputy Police Superintendent James J. Cusick that all known leads have been exhausted.

Cusic said eight day of work have achieved exactly nothing so far as learning the identity of the slayer of the fashionable obstetrician is concerned.

Seeking to open a new avenue of investigation, he ordered officers into a new search for the army automatic with which Dr. Webster was slain in the doorway of his home July 16.

The search centered in vacant lots of the east side, in the area surrounding the Webster town house. Aided by workmen, the detectives cleared weeds from vacant lots, and poked under porches and in out-of-the-way places where the pistol might have been discarded.

MERCY SLAYER AND SON TO BE BURIED

SEATTLE, July 24.—(AP)—Dr. Guy Shearman Peterkin and his 19-year-old son, whom investigators said the urologist killed in a "mercy execution" before taking his own life yesterday, will be buried together Monday.

Coroner Otto M. Mittelstadt said Dr. Peterkin, apparently convinced his son, Guy, Jr., would never be cured of a nervous ailment, telephoned the boy to meet him at his office, then shot him and himself.

SON OF HOPKINS WED, JUDGE SAYS

Gretna Official Says He Performed Ceremony For Couple June 22

NEW ORLEANS, July 24.—(AP)—Judge George J. Trauth of Gretna, an over-the-river mecca for eloping New Orleans couples, said today he had performed the marriage ceremony for two young people he identified as Miss Cherry Blossom Priesser, dancing star of a number of New York revues, and David J. Hopkins, son of Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

The two were wed June 22, the groom giving his name as "D. Jerome Hopkins" and the young bride as "Cleome Cerentha Preisser," he said. "Lloyd Hopkins" was given as the name of the groom's father. Judge Trauth said "Lloyd" is the administrator's middle name.

Although the couple's engagement was formally announced early in the summer when young Hopkins was a guest of the Preisser family at their summer home on the Mississippi gulf coast, Sam and Vic L. Preisser, New Orleans, brothers of the young dancer, denied today they had been married.

"They've probably mixed up the names on the record," Vic declared. "As a matter of fact, I was married in Gretna by Judge Trauth on that date, and both Cherry and her sister June were in the wedding party."

But Judge Trauth said "there is no mix up at all. A reporter last night asked me if I had married the couple and from his meager information I could not remember if I had. I did not know at the time who they were and I perform the ceremony for so many people."

"Today, however, I thumbed my files and found the record of the marriage and then I was able to recall the circumstances. The reporter brought me a number of pictures and I easily identified Miss Preisser as the young bride and her sister June and another gentleman as members of the party. I do not recall Mr. Hopkins very well."

Today members of the Preisser family said Cherry Blossom was in Chicago and they "believed David was in New York."

SEARCH FOR RIVER 'MONSTER' HALTED

NEWPORT, Ark., July 24.—(AP)—The underwater hunt for White River's reputed "monster" terminated abruptly today when professional diver C. B. Brown decided against further explorations.

He said he had decided not to go down into the murky river again and cancelled the hunt, which he was to have resumed tomorrow. He said, however, he was convinced that the "something" which he sought was not a sunken log or scow, as some theorized, but actually an overgrown fish of some sort, although he never encountered it in two days of diving near here armed with a sharp harpoon.

An air valve accident yesterday jerked him to the surface but he was not injured. He reported, however, that recent heavy rains had so muddied the water and so increased the flow of driftwood that he had decided against searching further.

Nevertheless, crowds of sight-seers continued today to scan the river from the banks and patronize concessions established in the vicinity, hoping for a glimpse of the "monster" which some local residents claim to have seen rise, snorting, from the river's depths.

DAYTON DEAN TAKEN TO MICHIGAN PRISON

DETROIT, July 24.—(AP)—Dayton Dean, Black Legion "trigger man," was taken to southern Michigan prison today to begin a life sentence for murder.

He had been held at police headquarters here for more than a year while he testified for the state in trials of other members of the terrorist society. Police have been unable to confirm his latest "confession" that he witnessed a hanging at a Black Legion meeting here.

Taken to prison with Dean were Jack Bannerman and Ervin Lee, each under two life terms for Black Legion killings.

'STRIP-TEASERS' AROUSE PROTESTS

Mine Workers Claim Lewd Women Shown By Company As Counter Attraction

CINCINNATI, July 24.—(AP)—Staid union meetings fare badly against "strip-tease" dance acts, United Mine Workers contended today in a complaint filed against a Kentucky coal firm. Company officials at Harlan, however, denied sponsoring any such counter-attraction.

Philip G. Phillips, regional director of the national labor relations board, said the complaint, alleging unfair labor practices against the Clover Fork Coal company, of Kitts, Ky., was the first of its kind to be filed.

"The company has been observing the Wagner labor relations act to the letter," declared A. F. Whitfield, secretary-treasurer. "Strip-tease? We deny that!" He disclaimed knowledge also of any form of entertainment designed to lure the miners from meetings.

Phillips said union representatives told him they "found it hard to meet competition of the free exhibitions" offered by the company.

The complaint charged that the firm, mentioned recently in hearings before a senatorial committee in Washington, "did procure lewd and immoral women to perform free, indecent exhibitions known as strip-and-tease dances and to otherwise engage in gratuitous, licentious conduct at times when union meetings were scheduled, for the purpose of enticing its employes from attending such meetings."

Charges aired in Washington were reviewed, among them one involving organization of a company union officially named the "Yellow Dog Union." The complaint sets forth that the firm "did employ armed guards, notorious criminals, gun-thugs commissioned as deputy sheriffs and other irresponsible ruffians for the express purpose of threatening, intimidating and coercing its employes."

200 EXPECTED AT NUDIST MEETING

Convention Of Sun Tanners Will Be Held In Los Angeles In September

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—(AP)—They are not dressing at this convention.

Bronzed young Hobart Glassey announced today he expected at least 200 delegates and visitors at his nudist conclave at the sun tanners' resort at Sequel, Calif., September 11-13.

At the convention will be discussed problems of individual groups, standards of membership, finance, public relations and other matters affecting nudism. There also will be inter-club games.

Glassey, a Syracuse university psychology graduate, is president and founder of Fraternity Elysia, which has a nudist resort in a secluded canyon 20 miles from here. He recently chartered the Sun Tanners of Soquel as the Beta chapter of Fraternity Elysia, first incorporated nudist group in the west. Soquel is near Santa Cruz.

Glassey and James F. Curl, head of the Sun Tanners, entered the charter agreement to link up the nudist movement in the west. Curl is a deputy sheriff and chamber of commerce member.

Glassey said 11 active nudist groups in California, two in Washington and one each in Oregon and Colorado are expected to send delegates.

"All these groups report memberships ranging from 30 to 200," he said. "It is difficult, however, to estimate accurately the number of sun bathing devotees in the west. Reports are constantly coming of small private groups and of individual nudists who go into the hills and out on beaches but are not officially registered.

"That they number many thousands may be assumed as a fact."

WATT DENIES DUKE SHIRKED HIS DUTY

LONDON, July 24.—(AP)—A suggestion that the Duke of Windsor shirked his duty as Edward VIII to keep a date last September with his present wife, then Mrs. Wallis Simpson, drew a belated denial today from Lord Provost Edward Watt of Aberdeen.

Passages in the book "Coronation Commentary" by Geoffrey Dennis intimated that when Aberdeen had prepared an elaborate welcome for the king he declined at the last moment and drove from Balmoral, the Scottish royal residence, to meet a "gay party of transatlantics."

Mrs. Simpson, accompanied by her friends Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers, visited the king at Balmoral early last fall.

At the last moment, said the book against the publishers of which the duke's attorneys have brought libel action, Edward delegated the Duke and Duchess of York, now King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, to open Aberdeen's royal infirmary and carry out the program.

Watt denied this in a letter authorized for publication, saying the king intimated he was unable to participate because of court mourning, but sent his brother.

"The fact that Mrs. Simpson arrived in Aberdeen the same day the Yorks appeared at the ceremony was a mere coincidence," Watt stated.

Shortly after publication Edward was successful in getting the volumn, dealing with the monarchy, and the abdication, withdrawn from sale in England.

An optometry department, designed to be the most completely equipped of its kind in the south, will be opened by Peacock's, Inc., in about ten days, it was announced Saturday by Max Moses, manager of the local store.

The department will be located on the mezzanine floor of the Peacock store at the corner of DeSiard and St. John, and will be air-conditioned to provide adequate comfort for patrons. Two rooms will be devoted to the new department, Mr. Moses said, one as a reception room and the other for examination and fitting of glasses.

One of the leading optometrists of the state will be in charge of the department, it was announced.

"The type of equipment which will be placed in our optometry division will be of the kind that is only found in the larger cities of the north and east," Mr. Moses said. "It represents the very latest developments in the scientific treatment for correction and treatment of defective and imperfect vision. As an example, we will have an instrument for the treatment of cross eyes, an advance in optometry which has only recently come into use. Everything that will contribute to the comfort and efficient service of our patrons will be installed in this department."

Announcement will be made later regarding the date of the formal opening, Mr. Moses said.

Character Is Built Stone By Stone

"You look glum," said a man to another as they met on the street.

"Do I really?" replied the other. "I didn't think I displayed it."

"What is the matter?" asked the first.

"Well, nothing, I suppose, if you look at it that way. But I guess I don't look at it that way. This morning I found a purse with $200 in it. No one was around. I had no idea who might have dropped it. There was no identification in it. I never really thought of keeping it. Well, I advertised, seeking the owner. A few minutes ago I received a telephone message that the woman who owned it and identified it had claimed the purse and its contents."

Then he paused.

"And," said his friend, "she didn't give you any reward!"

He smiled ruefully. "She didn't." And he shook his head.

This is the story of David or Robert or Mary or Gertrude. Frequently the story is not one of finding a purse but one of making a right decision at any important crossroads.

"Virtue is its own reward" is more truthful than most platitudes. David or Mary could make the wrong decision—could keep the $200—could yield to some other wrong impulse in some other situation—could let the canker of resentment replace the usual complexion of good-will. But, it would inevitably result in something painful. There is never any abiding or worthwhile enjoyment coming from the wrongful deprivation of someone else.

The reward would have been fine—David or Robert or Mary or Gertrude—but in returning the purse you rewarded yourself. You have laid a brick in the structure of character, which so long as you live you will enjoy the benefit of having laid.

This may sound like tripe or moralizing guff to the cynical worker convinced of the ingratitude of the hard old world, but some day you will learn the intangible qualities of character are more real and stable and practical than any material rewards coming of debatable tactics.

Having done the right thing you will not have an irritating and goading conscience to live with, which is one thing. On top of that, you should know that one year from now you may lay an important and vastly gratifying other stone in the structure of your career which could never have been laid and trued up without having been preceded and underlaid by this lesser one of today.

FISHING VERSUS QUINTS

Almost every state, province or community has its feature attraction these days, good for so many tourists a year. Occasionally, however, a locality has two big drawing cards, and their competition is likely to develop some amusing situations.

From Ontario, homeland of the Dionne quintuplets, comes a brave statement from one D. J. Taylor, deputy minister of game and fisheries to the effect that more tourists invaded the province in the good fishing seasons of 1928-29 than in any comparable period since the birth of the five famous sisters.

In view of world interest in the quints, many Ontario residents may consider this statement nothing less than open heresy. Nevertheless, it seems that Mr. Taylor would be certain of a share of victory if there is any argument. For, with the quints steadily gaining in popularity, Ontario is going to need a good man to keep its fishing properly press-agented. And from the start he has made, Mr. Taylor is going to be just the man for the job.

TIME OUT FOR RULES

Occasionally the parliamentary rules hedging state and national lawmakers call for actions which baffle the non-political observer. Stopping the clock to conform with a set adjournment time is the commonest example. Ohio demonstrated another on a recent holiday when two members of the legislature convened in order to comply with constitutional provisions for a session.

Government students could offer any number of plausible reasons for this. The intention, of course, is to provide a safety check. Without strict rules, the theory goes, a legislative body might run wild over custom and constitutional authority.

There is no denying that the principle is sound. But, like any other good thing, it can be carried too far. Rules which are meticulously observed merely as a concession to "form" could very nicely be trimmed out. Then the legislators would have more time for really serious business.

Because of their poor showing in the last election, New York's Communists will be off the ballot in the next election. This is unfortunate. It deprives the super-patriots of an important reason for viewing with alarm.

Radio announcing isn't a real profession yet. The boys who do it all seem to love one another.

People don't hate you for doing them a favor. It's because you keep reminding them of it.

The Good Neighbor

By Helen Welshimer

TO be a neighbor, wise and strong and good,
This is the goal that I have sought this year;
To be my brother's keeper, knowing well
How many walk a long road, dark with fear.

TO go that second mile of kindliness
With frightened ones—to show a child the way
To follow visions up the steepest hills . . .
God, I have tried to do this every day.

IF I have failed, then give me greater strength
To spend myself for others this new year.
And may no one lack friendship, sympathy
To ease his load, dear God, when I am near.

THE SENTINEL OF FOOD QUALITY

Food served to American families today is more varied and of higher quality than ever before. The modern housewife sets a far better table with much less output of time and energy than her grandmother dreamed possible. The improvement is due probably just as much to the way food is sold as to new developments in food manufacture. Advertising and modern merchandising have played an important part.

Not many years ago the housewife spent most of her day drudging over a sizzling stove. There was the baking to do and preserves to be put up, in addition to the job of manufacturing three heavy meals a day. And when she wasn't laboring in the kitchen, grandmother was doing her marketing in a store, among open cracker barrels and open bins of tea, coffee, rice and corn-meal, which stood near the onion barrels and kerosene cans.

If grandmother found arduous the task of feeding her family, still more difficult was it for her to be sure of the quality of the food she served. Bulk goods of uncertain origin and association were a constant menace to the family health.

At the beginning of this century, crackers were put into boxes for the first time. Since then many other food items have been promoted from the unsanitary barrels and bins to sealed packages, cans, and bottles. These containers enabled the manufacturer to put his label on his products and thus identify them in every store. And when he took the next step of advertising these trade-marked goods, the revolution in food merchandising had begun, leading to our standards of today.

Most of the products now sold in the grocery store are in packages identified by name, and your favorite brands are nearly all advertised. When a housewife names the brand of an advertised food item to her grocer, she does not wonder if the quality will be the same as when she bought the same article the week before. She takes that for granted, and no wise manufacturer would risk losing her patronage by disappointing her.

National advertising of foods has led to greater variety, for it enabled manufacturers to interest consumers in new dishes and to create a demand for foods previously unknown to the American table. Not only many new food products but scores of old products in new form have become a common part of our diet.

Informative advertising has helped to teach us more healthful eating habits. It gives the housewife information on matters of nutrition, vitamins, and calories, and has placed millions of recipe booklets in American homes.

Consumer good-will is the most important asset any manufacturer can possess. He may retain this good-will only by advertising honestly and by putting value behind his trade-mark. For once a housewife finds quality to be lacking in his products, the manufacturer's advertising only makes it easier for her to avoid them in the future. Thus good advertising is a sentinel guarding the quality of the nation's food.

A BOOK REVIEW

HOW DIVORCE AFFECTS THE CHILDREN'S LIVES

Through the medium of a child's thoughts, Mrs. E. M. Delafield in her book, "Nothing Is Safe," portrays the havoc wrought in the life of children by the divorce of their parents. And she does a splendid job of it.

Julia, 10, is the slightly precocious heroine of this modern novel, but it is her pale, taciturn brother, Terry, 12, who will command the sympathy of readers.

Children of a well-to-do English couple who have been divorced, Julia and Terry are shunted back and forth among the homes of their father and his new wife; their mother and bluff "Uncle" Tom, her new mate; and their grandparents.

Spirited, independent and a good sport, Julia tries to make the best of her new way of living, but the task of acting as a buffer between her neurotically sensitive brother and his relatives, none of whom understand him, constantly disturbs her.

And as for Terry himself, the bewildering new conditions and the thoughtless taunts of his stepfather cause him to draw deeper into his shell until at last he is in a sad mental plight.

All in all, by using Julia's perspective, Mrs. Delafield succeeds in painting a stirring picture of what the separation of parents can mean to children; and of how youngsters can suffer through the lack of understanding elders.

In a gentle way, this author has helped buttress the argument that parents should think twice before leaping into the divorce courts.—G. P.

'CONGRATULATIONS --- YOU WIN!'

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

In some ways this is one of the bravest letters I have ever received. It is from the members of The Arions All Blind Road orchestra in Minneapolis and reads:

Some time ago there was called to our attention your article about Alex Templeton, the blind pianist from London. We thought you might like to hear about a group of blind musicians who furnish orchestra dance music to thousands in this part of the country.

There are five of us. All totally blind, save Dick, who has 1-12 normal vision in only one eye. The other eye is glass. He can only see the outline of very large objects. In May we played 29 one-night stands and drove a distance of 5,300 miles.

We own our own car, also a trailer which we bought this year equipped for sleeping on the road. Also water for shaving, stove for cooking, etc., and compartments for our musical instruments. We hire our own driver who acts as ticket taker when we play percentage jobs. We average $75 a night and about $35 a week per person above expenses.

We have a little more than $5,000 invested in musical instruments and we have two solo singers, a quartet and a trio. We have played over the radio for about two years. Two of us are married and three single and we have an agreement never to get glum or sour—or at least to let the other fellows know when one does.

We write Braille and use the typewriter fairly well as you may judge from this letter. We play our own arrangements, which are made up by our leader. He gets the most of his tunes from the records. The records belong to the orchestra as we have a fund for buying them and now own about 1,000. We are able to add a new tune about as quickly as the seeing orchestra and we always add one number and sometimes two in a morning rehearsal.

All tune pianos. However we make no effort to get such jobs, and whatever we make this way we turn into the fund for records. Dick and Al can write as they haven't always been blind. We all play horseshoes fairly well. We go by the sound of one hitting the post we are about to ring. We have never played a place that we have not been offered a return engagement.

For an evening of exciting reading I commend Linton Well's "Blood on the Moon." He is a seasoned adventurer and world wanderer and the sort of writer that makes one experience much of the tingle of his thrills. Most of us like to play the part of the book-hero in our reading, I believe.

A barber tells me of his five-year-old grandson, playing in a police closed block, being knocked down by a drunken automobile driver and receiving a fractured skull. All bad enough, but more shocking was the development that the driver was on relief and was driving his own brand new Buick.

Small town Manhattan: More than 200 gather daily at Grand Central to watch the Century pull in and go out in the hope of catching glimpse of some Garbo or Robert Taylor. Most of them are the same faces day after day.

There is an old story of the editorial rooms—true or not I do not know—that is often told when newspapermen begin yarning. One night about 60 years ago, the legend goes, James Gordon Bennett, publisher of the New York Herald, told his friends that he would see to it that all the people of New York remained in their homes the following day.

Next morning the Herald appeared with a startling Page 1 story that all the animals had burst from their cages in the zoo and were prowling the streets. The 8-column banner read: "A Shocking Carnival of Death." Most people remained indoors and the down-town streets were deserted. Schools were closed and the entire town seemed lifeless. When the hoax was discovered, an indignant delegation called on Bennett, but he had sailed for Europe.

Billy Rose, the press agent often called The Midget Barnum, is generally credited with starting the French Casino vogue of "dancing on the stage." The fact is the idea came from Paris, where it was introduced in 1918 by Jed Kiley. The idea was not French and was never adopted by the French, but by the Irish-American Kiley, in his place there was a stage, and not having the capital to change over the stage he permitted the patrons to dance on it. For years patrons of the French Casino in Paris, however, have danced in the lobby.

Incidentally, New York's French Casino seems to have lifted the jinx from the playhouse that was so long known as the Earl Carroll theater. With the zippy, Paree type of girl show, featuring real French types, and serving dinner to customers as they watch, the place grossed the biggest business of any amusement center in town. The patronage was almost solely from out of town; largely the boys who were having their little fling and wanted to go back home and answer all queries as to their wanderings with a mysterious wink. Earl Carroll, in the meantime, has deserted New York's Rialto permanently for Hollywood, being articled to a studio at a fancy salary or a number of years—thus ending his producing worries.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

(Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

Considered formerly a disease largely limited to the southern portions of the United States, pellagra has now been found in Minnesota, Illinois and indeed occasionally cases are found in every state of the Union.

The condition was first described by a Spaniard in 1735. Later it was seen in Italy. Now it is seen all over the world. It may affect people of any age, although the majority of the cases appear in people of about 30 to 40 years of age. Women have it more often than men.

In 1915, more than 10,000 people died of this disease in the United States, and it has been believed in the past that hundreds of thousands were affected.

The symptoms of pellagra usually come out in the spring and new cases are rarely seen in the fall or winter. While the cause of pellagra has not been completely established, it is now rather generally accepted that a lack of vitamin B2 is the factor.

It seems also to be obvious that in some cases the lack of vitamin B is due to inability to absorb the vitamin, as in certain cases in which prolonged consumption of whisky has interfered with the taking of food. There are also conditions affecting the stomach and the digestion which make the absorption of the vitamin B difficult.

In addition to a lack of vitamin B, it is possible that the diet is deficient in certain proteins. The work of the celebrated Joseph Goldberger of the United States public health service seemed to establish quite definitely that pellagra does not develop in people who take a mixed, well-balanced and varied diet.

During periods of depression when some people find it difficult to secure sufficient amounts of food of the right kinds, the incidence of pellagra rises.

Among the chief symptoms of pellagra are those affecting the skin, the digestion and the nervous system. The eruption on the skin resembles ordinary sunburn and is usually seen first on the backs of the hands, later involving the neck, the forehead and the feet. Damage to the skin may result ultimately in scarring.

Since the inflammation of the skin appears chiefly on those sections which are exposed to sunlight, this is also believed to be a factor.

The mouth frequently is inflamed and sore, and there is also a persistent diarrhea in about 75 per cent of the cases. This diarrhea is, of course, responsible for the loss of fluid from the body and for the elimination of much of the food before it has been digested and before the body has been able to get its full value.

Along with the bowel disturbances, these people suffer with headache, dizziness, nausea, sleeplessness and sometimes with complete mental disturbance.

Pellagra should apparently not be difficult either to prevent or to cure.

CROSSETT CITIZENS TO ATTEND HEARING

CROSSETT, Ark., July 24.—(Special)—A large crowd of Crossett citizens and employes of the Crossett Lumber company will attend the hearing scheduled Monday at Monticello, Ark., when the National Labor Relations Board will receive evidence in the complaint filed against the lumber firm by members of the United Carpenters and Joiners for alleged dismissal of employes for union affiliation following a strike at the plant here in August of 1935.

The hearing has been the chief topic of conversation among Crossett inhabitants since the announcement was made yesterday by Charles H. Logan of New Orleans, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, that the testimony would be open to the public.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—The president telephoned the vice-president and said, in effect:

"Jack, you come on back here and help me settle some of this mess you made. A lot of these senators who are agitating for adjournment point out that there is no reason for staying here and passing our legislation since the president of the senate has gone away. Come on back here and help me out of this jam."

Presumably each man had a stenographer taking down the conversation, none of which is available, of course, except to the participants. One can only guess as to what Garner said.

But every insider, Roosevelt and Garner adherents alike, agreed that Roosevelt desperately needed Garner's help at a tight point in the court fight.

Somewhere in the contact between the White House and Garner arose the suggestion that Roosevelt would be willing to make a trade with Garner on certain policies in return for the vice-president's support.

One guess, made by a man who nearly always guesses right, was that Garner would win the assurance that wage-hour legislation would not be demanded at this session. Garner is grimly set against financial-economic-political control from New York. Hence he realizes that the court bill would be helpful in that field. He is equally violent against sit-down strikes, the C. I. O., higher wages for negro workers as well as poor whites in the south, and government spending for WPA.

Recall of Garner, who had walked out from his post while Roosevelt, in effect, had elevated his nose and suggested the vice-president would never be missed if that was the way he felt about it, indicated the desperate position in which the administration forces felt themselves to be after Majority Leader Robinson's death. The fact that Roosevelt would have to trade with Garner became obvious at once.

The late Joe Robinson had operated on a personal basis and there was no administration machine in the senate. He had exchanged favors for favors, but these were personal favors and this became obvious after his death to the great demoralization of the administration's court fight. The real Capitol Hill battling had been left to the department of justice, which meant, in effect, only Assistant Attorney General Joe Keenan.

His Luck Holds Good

Some of Roosevelt's closest friends and most influential advisers begged him in vain to go on the funeral train with the body of Robinson to Arkansas, for strategic reasons, of course.

The president's failure to board that train aroused plenty of criticism, not only from the few who felt he should have paid the final tribute to a loyal follower, but also—and perhaps mostly—from political enemies who made the most of it.

Roosevelt's unjustly celebrated luck seemed to hold good, however, when complaints as to his failure to go along became dulled by unvarnished news reports which showed the to-and-from trip to have been a continuous political conference. Vote canvassing on the senate majority leadership and court bill compromise talk were the outstanding features.

The president of the United States would have been placed in a bad setting. Whether or not the specter of such a spectacle influenced his intention not to ride with the body to burial, he had the memory of the political shindig into which the late Speaker Henry Rainey's funeral was turned to remind him of the possibilities.

The excuse he gave to the intimates who urged him to go was that he was terribly worried about the Chinese-Japanese hostilities and must stay here to follow hour-by-hour developments.

Loaded With Dynamite

Apparently he meant it. The new neutrality act practically forces the president, in effect, to take sides in any foreign war. Roosevelt could afford to make a grandstand play for neutrality by his handling of the Spanish situation, privately taking the position that Spanish civil war was primarily something for France and England to worry about.

But the Pacific, from the military and political standpoint, is in this country's back yard. Our traditional attitude toward China is one of friendliness, and the nine-power treaty calls for aid for nations which become victims of aggressors.

Military and naval gentry all regard Japan as the nation which we're most likely to fight. This country is China's base of supply for munitions, which would be automatically cut off once Roosevelt recognized a state of war.

The neutrality act's cash-and-carry principle would give Japan a tremendous advantage on other commodities because she has a merchant fleet and China hasn't.

The situation was loaded with dynamite, and each of the many possibilities through which the neutrality law is sure to make us unneutral in a foreign war was painfully obvious.

PULLMANS WILL GO STRAIGHT THROUGH

Effective immediately, Pullmans will be operated from Monroe and other stations on the Missouri Pacific railroad into New Orleans without change of cars over the railroad's own system. Formerly the trains operated the last part of the trip over the tracks and ferry of the T. P. railroad.

J. A. Combs, Monroe city passenger and ticket agent, announced Saturday that the new plan will, he believes, find favor with the traveling public.

8 EXTRA POUNDS OF RUBBER . . .

TAPPING RUBBER TREES ON FIRESTONE PLANTATIONS IN LIBERIA

From these vast plantations come an ever increasing supply of the world's finest rubber. Firestone economies in producing raw materials, manufacturing and distribution make it possible for Firestone to give you so much more for your money.

Another Reason Why

EXTRA VALUE AT NO EXTRA COST

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. By this process every fiber in every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber. This counteracts dangerous internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because under the tread are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE because of the extra tough, long wearing tread.

Before leaving on your vacation trip, join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Standard tires—today's top tire value.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON THIN WORN TIRES

DO YOU KNOW

THAT last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children?

THAT a million more were injured?

THAT more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to unsafe tires?

TWINS AND JUDGES TO PLAY TWO GAMES TODAY

SPORTS CHATTER

By George V. Lofton

LOOKING UP

Last week we ventured the prediction that Monroe fans would support the Twins in increasing numbers if the club showed a bunch of youngsters who were hustling for nine full innings and who would fight for every inch out there on the ball field. From the team's record during the week, we've got just that kind of a club.

When Owner Dick Burnett sent Hock, Bates, Van Orsdol and other so-called stars of the Monroe club to Texarkana, the fans wondered just how far the club would drop through the bottom of the league. A bunch of youngsters was sent to replace these players and they immediately began to click. The Monroe club played better ball last week than at any time during the season and from all indications, it's because they're out there hustling.

Reviewing the past week's performances, we find that Monroe dropped two games to Greenwood, one by a 2-0 score and the other by 2-1; then they jumped to Vicksburg and won two out of the three games there. The Billies won their only victory by a 1-0 score. The Twins won 4 to 2 and 8 to 6. That's five consecutive games of good baseball; it's a record that hasn't been equalled all season. Yet Monroe's "mis-fit" ball club was responsible for that good baseball. The kids deserve a great big hand for their showing.

One of the players yesterday gave a pretty good reason for the team's showing.

"To be perfectly frank about it, we haven't got much of a ball club as far as individual ability is concerned," he said. "However, we do have a bunch of kids who are out there hustling and who want to win so bad it hurts every time we lose a game. We've been getting good pitching right down the line and that, coupled with the old hustle and the burning desire to win has made us look pretty darn good this week."

As we predicted last week, Monroe fans will go for that kind of baseball. If the kids continue to hustle as they've demonstrated during the past week, the crowds will be on hand to give 'em a boost, win or lose.

IT STIRRED 'EM UP

Considerable caustic comment by sports writers around the circuit greeted the announcement that Vicksburg and Monroe were attempting to withdraw from the league. The club owners weren't the only ones who let out a squawk. The boys who pound the typewriters in the various parks let Monroe and Vicksburg know in no uncertain terms that they didn't approve of the proposal by any stretch of the imagination. And who can blame 'em?

Without further ado, here are some of the burning words which were written about the situation:

Claude Curlin, Clarksdale Register—"When Jackson and Cleveland gave up their franchises at the close of last year and Monroe and Vicksburg replaced them, everyone thought the 'weak sisters' had been removed. Now it seems that two 'lemons' replaced them. Neither club has drawn well at all. Monroe, in last place, has disappointed the entire league. The Twins were expected to be strong pennant contenders. Vicksburg, even though in second place until a few weeks ago, did not draw. And then Manager Ray Brubaker was taken away from the club to become manager at Dallas. * * * The other six clubs should see to it that the historic circuit, which has given many a star to the major leagues, should not fold."

J. P. Muse, Greenwood Commonwealth—"It seems the burden rests on Vicksburg, farm club of Dallas and the Chicago White Sox. * * * It's true the Bills were losing money daily, with poor attendance at all home games. But it seems that in the interest of the young ball players Dallas is trying to develop there, they should keep the club going. * * * At organization meetings last winter, representatives of the Dallas club and Monroe literally begged for places in the league. They gave assurance that both Vicksburg and Monroe could and would go through the season, regardless of attendance. Their withdrawal now is a distinct breaking of promises, and a rather low blow to the other clubs who agreed to let them in. * * * It's hard to understand the desire of these club owners to withdraw. True, Vicksburg has failed to draw, despite the fact the team has been in the first division all season. On the other hand, Monroe has drawn as well as could be expected for a club that has occupied the cellar a goodly portion of the year."

Mitch McLaughlin, Delta Star (Greenville)—"The action taken by the Chicago White Sox through Dallas in dropping out at Vicksburg came as a surprise and shock to the rest of the Cotton States league, with the possible exception of Owner Burnett of Monroe. About ten days ago this column commented on the wholesale withdrawal and shifting of players at Vicksburg. We pointed out that there appeared to be something rotten at Vicksburg. * * * Saturday night's story of Vicksburg's withdrawal was the answer to the mystery. Then Monroe, through Owner Burnett, chimes in 'me, too,' and prepares to take a run-out. It now appears that Burnett and Tarleton have anticipated the move for some time. All that Monroe needs is a winning team. The Twin Cities have supported their team well enough when their sojourn in the cellar is considered. * * * The backbone of the Cotton States league is made of sterner stuff. When the bad news came, the other clubs immediately reached an agreement to carry on, and with all eight clubs, even if necessary to subsidize Vicksburg and Monroe."

CALHOUN HURLER HOLDS BASTROP TO SINGLE HIT

BASTROP, La., July 24.—(Special)—John Henry Clark, stellar hurler for the Calhoun club of the Little Six league, held the Ouachita Valley league Bastrop team to one hit here today as Calhoun nosed out Bastrop, 4 to 3, in an exhibition game.

Clark's wildness in the ninth inning almost cost him the game, however, as he walked five batters, forcing in two runs, but he tightened up in time to save the game. Clark struck out eight batters. Langston, hurling for Bastrop, was reached for nine hits, including a triple and double by Heath. Bastrop's only hit was a double by Kirkland.

Score by innings:

Calhoun	000 001 012	4	9 3
Bastrop	010 000 002	3	1 3

Clark and Brownlee; Langston and Thaxton.

JACKSON JUNIORS WIN

HATTIESBURG, Miss., July 24.—(AP)—Jackson's junior American Legion baseball team today advanced to the state championship finals by defeating Hattiesburg, 11-12. Jackson will play Yazoo City next for the state championship and the right to enter interstate competition.

BUDGE TROUNCES HARE AFTER LONG FIRST SET FIGHT

Californian Takes Opener At 15-13; Austin Easily Defeats Parker

By Scotty Reston

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 24.—(AP)—The United States and Great Britain playing spotty and sometimes hilarious tennis in rhythm with a mysterious dance orchestra outside the grounds, split the first two singles matches of the Davis cup challenge round today.

Sleek, dark-complexioned Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin, main hope of the defending British, soundly whipped Frankie Parker, 22-year-old youngster from Milwaukee, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5, in the opening match but Don Budge, the "Red Terror" from Oakland, Calif., tied up the series by subduing young Charles Edgar Hare after a wierd first set, 15-13, 6-1, 6-2.

This even division, confidently predicted in advance by the experts, left the rivals exactly where they started and America's campaign to regain the cup for the first time since France lifted it at Germantown, Pa., in 1927, no farther advanced than before.

American supporters, however, are counting definitely on picking up the two points still needed in the doubles on Monday and in the final two singles matches Tuesday when today's pairings will be reversed.

The uninvited orchestra showed up to play for a picnic in a field adjoining the aristocratic all-England club and amused the 10,000 spectators at least until Parker and Austin, dressed in brief shorts, appeared on the courts for the opening match.

Then, while Frankie and Bunny, two of the glumest guys who ever made a double-fault, went grimly about the task of "dying" for their respective countries, the band struck up a series of giddy melodies that had the fans tapping their feet and forgetting the fact that this was serious international business.

After the first few games there was a suspicion that maybe even Frankie was listening to the music for he developed a tendency to be on the wrong side of the court as Austin's deep drives bounded into the corners.

As a matter of fact, the Milwaukee youngster, named as a replacement for Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta, never had a chance against the machine-like Austin.

Bunny ran through the first two sets without serious difficulty and even in the third, when Parker rallied in the later stages, there never was any doubt about the outcome.

All the excitement of the first day's play was furnished by Hare, a big, handsome southpaw. Given not a chance against the brilliant Budge, the young Briton had the gallery sitting in wide-eyed amazement as he carried the fight to the red-headed Californian from the outset and yielded finally through sheer exhaustion rather than to the American's superior play.

It took a service break by Budge in the tenth game to save the redhead from losing the opening set. With that break and the score all even at 5-5, the Californian, obviously far below form, was content to hang on, protecting his own service games, for 17 games in succession. Finally in the 28th game, Hare, who was leading 40-15, served two consecutive double-faults to allow Budge to deuce the score. A third double-fault, a minute later, cost the Briton game and set.

Budge missed more shots in this set than he usually does in any three. Hare, flashing a fast service and a good forehand, kept rushing the next to thump Budge's returns right back at him. In the 21st game Budge had to come up from 15-40 to save his service and in the 22nd, on Hare's service, Budge led 40-0 only to see the Briton rally fiercely to save the game.

The crowd was so amazed by this spectacle that the women kept squeaking up at the wrong times and had to be called down by a patient official who was mad about the music anyway.

Budge and Hare blundered on through five more games on service before the exhausted Briton finally folded up.

Thereafter it was a breeze for Budge who began hitting his shots with his customary speed and accuracy. Hare was so weary he could throw up little defense against the Californian's powerful offensive.

U. S. AMATEUR GRAPPLERS BEAT JAPANESE TEAM, 5;2

TOKYO, July 24.—(AP)—American amateur wrestlers triumphed over a Japanese team in the final matches of the Japanese-American international championships today, scoring five out of seven victories before a huge crowd.

The five successful Americans were Harold Kightlinger, Frank Ota, Fortchie Masadeo, Willis Jackson and Lynn Madray.

In two previous matches the Americans won four out of seven bouts and the Japanese four out of seven.

Indians To Boast Strong Backfield For '37 Season

Coach Malone Has Two Good Combinations To Use During Coming Campaign

The best backfield in the history of Northeast Center of L. S. U. will be on hand for the opening of the Indians 1937 grid campaign in September, it was assured last night by Coach James L. Malone, who is already completing arrangements for what promises to be one of the Tribe's biggest seasons.

Coach Malone said last night that the Center eleven would have two complete backfield changes, one as strong as the other, and that reserves in that department would be considerably stronger than in past seasons.

Eight candidates head the backfield roster at present, and Coach Malone indicated last night that any four of that eight would be good enough to be in the starting lineup against Monticello A. and M. in Center's opening game of the season here September 24.

The names that will figure in the Indian backfield this year are Tony Veranda, John Semago, "Cotton" Leatherwood, Ed "Pop" Walker, Bob Kellogg, James Meeks, Dick Elliott and Guy Seivers.

Meeks and Seivers are the only new men among the backs who will vie for berths on the Indian eleven, but both were on hand for the spring drills and turned in some exceptional work. Meeks is working toward a fullback position, while Seivers will be at a wingback post.

Veranda and Semago, both veterans, will be depended on for their blocking ability. Both are good interference men and will no doubt share the blocking back work. Leatherwood and Walker will share the spinner back position. Kellogg ranks with the best of the fullbacks, and Elliott is slated for the wingback job.

Coach Malone last week announced a nine-game schedule, and stated that he was seeking one more game to add to the locals' list of battles. He also stated that he expected the 1937 Tribe to be a much better team than the undefeated eleven of 1935.

The opening of the football training camp, preparatory to the beginning of the coming season, will be September 6, Coach Malone said, and the training grind will continue right up to the season opener.

BASTROP TOURNEY OPENS THIS WEEK

BASTROP, La., July 24.—(Special)—First-round matches in the 1937 Morehouse Country club championship and president's cup tournament being played on the local golf course this week, will end Sunday. A. L. Ross, defending champion, was medalist in the club championship play with a one-over-par 73.

Pairings in the club championship, with qualifying scores, follow:

A. L. Ross, 73, and Tom G. Seale, 87; W. B. Gladney, 83, and J. B. Tisdale, Sr., 90; Gene Loftin, 75, and D. Campbell, 88; L. C. Spier, 86, and E. F. Madison, 91; J. B. Tisdale, Jr., 74, and George Ludlum, 87; Alan Andrews, 85, and J. R. Ludlum, 90; Brice Pirtle, 80, and Dr. W. V. Garnier, 89; and F. W. Hawthorne, 86, and Sol Snyder, 91.

Handicaps are being used in the president's cup tournament. Those in the championship play are also entered in the tournament. In addition other pairings are:

W. P. Douglass and L. E. Pagan, E. L. Gladney and Ferd Wolff, George Orr and Fred Coats, Joe Pate and Fred Floyd, M. F. Hill and E. D. Shaw, James Orr and John Penninger, John Coats and M. V. Orr, and Dr. J. L. Rawls and Leland Howard.

All matches must be played by Sunday.

ROWE TO BE RETIRED FOR REST OF SEASON

DETROIT, July 24.—(AP)—Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe submitted an application for voluntary retirement tonight to Walter O. Briggs, president of the Detroit Tigers.

Club officials said Briggs accepted the application, and that approval of American league President William Harridge and Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis would complete the severance between Rowe and the Tigers for the remainder of the 1937 season.

The Schoolboy, nursing a sore arm, will go to his home in El Dorado, Ark., Monday.

The end of the Schoolboy's season came in the seventh inning of the first game with the Philadelphia Athletics at Navin field Friday. There were five hits and five runs.

Manager Mickey Cochrane, who has had a share of trouble himself, saw the game from the press box. After the game Cochrane, Acting Manager Del Baker and Coach Cy Perkins put their heads together. Then Cochrane advised Rowe against trying to pitch any more this season.

Both Cochrane and Briggs said they believe an operation is the only way to determine whether Rowe ever will pitch again.

PENNER QUITS AS PILOT OF MONTGOMERY BOMBERS

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 24.—(AP)—Ken Penner, former pitcher of the Louisville club of the American association, resigned today as manager of the Montgomery Bombers in the Southeastern league.

President Harry Hatcher said that Penner had asked for his outright release and that it had been given him. Harry Griswold, Bomber catcher, will direct the team until a new manager is named.

The Bombers, hindered by injuries and poor pitching all season, are in the league cellar and have never been higher than fifth place in the standings.

Hatcher said he had been negotiating with Ernie (Doc) Wingard, former pitcher with Milwaukee in the American association, to manage the club if he could secure his release from Troy of the Alabama-Florida league.

YANKS TO GAIN CONTROL OF KANSAS CITY BLUES

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—The New York Yankees today all but completed arrangements whereby they will gain control of their third class AA baseball farm—the Kansas City Blues of the American association.

An agreement was reached whereby the world champions will purchase the club's franchise, players and ball park subject to certain conditions which are expected to be cleared up so they can take over control August 1. No details of the agreement were made public.

The Yanks already own the Newark club of the International league and have a working agreement with the Oakland Oaks of the Pacific Coast league in addition to several other minor league clubs of lower classifications.

ALLISON DEFEATS HUNT FOR TITLE

Veteran Texas Net Star Gains Permanent Possession Of Longwood Bowl

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 24.—(AP)—Wilmer Allison, 32-year-old Texas star, recovered quickly after a bad start in the Longwood singles final today and won permanent possession of the eighth Longwood Bowl by defeating Gil Hunt of Washington, D. C., 2-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4.

After dropping the first set to the youthful Hunt, former Massachusetts Institute of Technology top-notcher, Allison shook off the handicap of an injured right arm and turned loose all his court strategy to take the next three sets in a row. It was his third Longwood singles title, as he previously won in 1928 and 1934.

In the women's final match, Mrs. John Van Ryn, Austin, Tex., seventh ranking woman tennis player, scored a straight set victory over Helen Pedersen of Stamford, Conn., 6-3, 6-4.

A crowd of 2,000 at the Longwood Cricket club saw 23-year-old Hunt apparently discard the uneven style that upset Bob Harman in the semi-finals yesterday. With sharply angled drives, Hunt forced Allison to play a losing back-court game, allowing the veteran only two games in the first set.

However, with Allison bearing down and forcing a fast game, Hunt weakened, allowing his opponent to take command at the net in the last three sets. Allison showed the effects of the arm injury that has handicapped his play through his six-match march to the finals, often over-driving the baseline and appearing unsure of his back-hand.

After losing the second set, 6-3, Hunt's superb passing shots deserted him, Allison finding his way to the net repeatedly. The youthful player yielded the third set at love, Allison touching the top of his form as he sensed the victory.

Today's victory disproved Allison's own prediction, the experienced player having presaged his own defeat before the tourney. However, after the match, Allison declared he would not retire "until I can't hold a racket any longer."

Played as approaching dusk made visibility uncertain, the men's doubles final was a five-set battle. Gil Hunt, teamed with Bob Harman of Berkeley, Calif., unexpectedly dropped the first two sets to George Toley of Los Angeles and Vernon Marcum, St. Petersburg, Fla., but came back to win, 5-7, 1-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

OUACHITA VALLEY

RUSTON AT BROWN

The Ruston Volunteers will come here today for an engagement with the Brown Paper mill Brownies. The game will start promptly at 3:45 o'clock at the Brownies' park.

The Vols, at present a half game behind the Brownies in fourth place, expect to be up among the top teams for the remainder of the season. The Vol roster, changed considerably at the beginning of the second half, has been strengthened somewhat.

Lewis, big Ruston hurler, is expected to pitch for the visitors with Causey catching. Manager Herb Steed of Brown stated he would use either Truman Mayes or Ralph Fields on the mound, with Callender catching.

The league standings may change considerably as a result of today's games. Should Crossett stop Swartz and the Brownies beat Ruston, the Millers, Carbon Blackers and Brownies would all be tied for first place. A victory by the Vols would send them ahead of Brown by a half game, and they stand a chance of going into a tie for second place should the Millers lose.

Bastrop will be battling Hodge in the day's "cellar" game and while Bastrop can't expect to come up off the bottom today, a victory would pull the Wa-Ha's into a tie with them in last place and give Bastrop their first win of the second half.

CROSSETT AT SWARTZ

CROSSETT, Ark., July 24.—(Special)—The Crossett Millers, first half Ouachita Valley league champions, will play the first place Swartz Carbon Blackers at Swartz Sunday.

Manager Cortez Moore said today Rob Roy McGregor, star Miller right hander, would be on the mound. He said Roland Lanche, former Monroe Brown player, would join the club as utility man tomorrow.

FIRST GAME OF SERIES RAINED OUT LAST NIGHT

Pate And Petraborg Or Vandenberg Named To Hurl For Twins Today

Monroe's hustling Twins returned home from a successful invasion of Mississippi yesterday all set to tackle the league-leading Pine Bluff Judges in the first of a three-game series last night but a downpour of rain at Casino park late yesterday afternoon washed out the scheduled opener and delayed hostilities until this afternoon.

The Judges and the Twins will play two games today, with the first starting at 2:30 o'clock.

Many fans were disappointed when the weather man, playing a peculiar trick on the Twins, caused the postponement of last night's games. It didn't rain a drop downtown or in the south and north ends of Monroe, but the east side was drenched by an hour's shower. In fact, the ball park was the hardest hit spot in town when the downpour started. The infield was turned into a sea of mud and there wasn't a chance of playing the contest.

Manager Walter Butler said he would start Ralph "Joe" Pate, ace of the Monroe staff in the opener. The second game will find either Walter Petraborg or Bill Vandenberg, who joined the team yesterday, on the mound for the Twins.

Manager "Cowboy" Jones said he was undecided on the Judges' starter in the opener but indicated that Humphries and Willis will pitch the two games for the league leaders. Humphries is the second best hurler in the league, according to the averages, and Willis is close behind. Yesterday's rest put the Pine Bluff staff in good shape and Manager Jones will be able to call on any member of the hurling corps to work against the Twins.

Owner R. W. Burnett, who arrived here late yesterday afternoon, announced that Bill Vandenberg, pitcher and utility man, and Beauford Rhea, hard hitting outfielder, would rejoin the club today. Vandenberg arrived last night and Rhea is expected in camp today. Vandenberg, who became a great favorite with local fans because of his strong arm and his heavy bat, was sent to Texarkana several weeks ago. Rhea joined the Texarkana club when Manager Eddie Hock, Claire Bates, Jack Van Orsdol and other Twins were sent to the East Texas league club last Saturday.

The Twins played great ball during the past week and the club, composed chiefly of youngsters, has been hustling to give the opposition some real battles. After dropping two close games to Greenwood Monday and Tuesday, the Twins beat Vicksburg two games out of three to cop the final series of the road trip.

The games today open a long home stand and there is a possibility that the Twins may be able to leave the cellar. Local fans have expressed their approval of the present brand of ball the club is playing under Manager Butler and a large crowd is expected to see the double header with the Judges today.

Greenville uncorked 18 hits while Hawley limited El Dorado to three in the Cotton States league Saturday and overwhelmed the Lions 13 to 0. The Buckshots played errorless ball while landing mightily on the offerings of Gore and Tone.

By this effort on their home grounds the Bucks dropped El Dorado to fourth place behind Greenwood, which bumped Clarksdale 5 to 2.

Greenwood made its runs in the eighth and ninth innnings to down the Red Sox, who could add only one run in a last period rally. Anderson hurled against Walsh to take the win.

Helena defeated Vicksburg, 10 to 8, in a loosely played game which saw 10 errors committed. The Mississippians gathered 14 hits from Raymond and Jones. Melton yielded 12 to the Arkansans, who bunched them to better advantage.

Pine Bluff, the league leaders, remained idle at Monroe because of wet grounds.

CUBS POUND GIANTS' HURLERS FOR 10-5 WIN

BRUINS RALLY TO BEAT NEW YORK SECOND STRAIGHT

Each Club Uses Four Hurlers As Chicago Boosts Lead To Three Games

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—Pitchers came a dime a dozen at the Polo Grounds today—and weren't worth much more—but the Chicago Cubs backed up their ineffective defense with heavier hitting and walloped the Giants 10 to 5 to stretch their National league lead to three full games.

They made it two in a row over the crippled New Yorkers by clubbing out 13 hits to the Giants' 11, and bunching their blows to make runs when they counted.

A pre-game bad break turned out to be a piece of luck for the Cubs. Stan Hack injured a leg during batting practice and had to be replaced at third base by the fielding undependable, Linus Frey. But Linus played errorless ball afield and was the No. 1 man of the offense.

He touched off the winning three-run rally in the seventh with a homer, and clubbed out a single in the ninth to bring in the final two runs.

Each club sent four pitchers to the wars, and not one of them could do anything in the way of muffling the opposition. The Cubs staked their starter, Roy Parmelee, a five-run edge in the fifth, and he promptly blew it in the sixth as the Giants tied the score. Curt Davis helped him kick the lead away in this frame, and Larry French finally was called on to stop it. French was later replaced by Clay Bryant but received credit for the win.

Rookie Cliff Melton opened for the Giants and was tagged for the first five runs in the fifth. He was followed by Dick Coffman, Hal Schumacher and Tom Baker, with Schumacher losing the ball game.

The Cubs' first rally, in the fifth, started with a walk to Gabby Hartnett. Successive singles by Bill Jurges, Joe Marty and Parmelee sent two runs in. An error scored another, and Frank Demaree's hit produced the other two. In the seventh, Frey opened with his homer. Singles by Billy Herman and Hartnett, a double by Jurges and two walks added two more runs. Frey's single in the ninth brought in runners from third and second.

BEES BLANK PIRATES

BOSTON, July 24.—(AP)—The Boston Bees today combined a long distance hitting attack with five-hit pitching by Jim Turner to lambast the Pittsburgh Pirates 9 to 0 for the Bees' fifth consecutive victory.

In twirling his 10th win of the season, Turner registered the second straight shutout for the home club and ran its record to 20 triumph in 28 games.

Turner and Lou Fette, Boston's successful 30-year-old rookies, have accounted for 22 victories this season.

Home runs by Gene Moore and Tony Cuccinello accounted for four of the Bees' runs. Moore tagged Bill Swift in the second inning for one of the longest drives ever made in this park, sending the ball 425 feet into the centerfield bleachers.

Cuccinello's homer in the third with two aboard clinched the game for the Bees and ended Swift's term on the mound. Mace Brown took over the hurling duties for the Pirates and was nicked for four consecutive hits.

CARDS WALLOP DODGERS

BROOKLYN, July 24.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals knocked the ears off three Brooklyn pitchers and walloped the Dodgers 20 to 2 in the most humiliating defeat of the big league season.

From a Brooklyn standpoint the game was a comedy of errors, the Dodgers committing seven to help the Cardinal cause along, although it needed little help since every member of the Gas House Gang hit safely at least once and drove in at least one run.

Lon Warneke, backed up by Brooklyn fumbling and St. Louis larruping, breezed along to his 11th win of the year, allowing only six hits.

PELS EVEN SERIES

BIRMINGHAM, July 24.—(AP)—The New Orleans Pelicans evened things up in their current series with Birmingham tonight by trimming the Barons 7 to 4. The two teams complete their four-game series with a double-header tomorrow.

Both teams got nine hits tonight. Howell hit a home run with one on for the Barons. John Humphries, New Orleans hurler, struck out 11 men tonight to run his season's strikeout total to 142.

CHICKS BEAT ROCKS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 24.—(AP)—Alton Benton, Memphis relief hurler, spiked Little Rock's guns in an eighth inning rally tonight and gave the Chicks a 4-2 victory to square the series with the Travelers.

Mike Martynik was doing well behind a three run lead piled up off Porter in the early innings. In the eighth Martynik's slants lost their effectiveness and Benton stepped into the gap to retire the Travelers on strikeouts.

In that inning, Howell, Memphis third sacker, was spiked in an attempted double play on Graham. Howell had to be taken from the game.

VOLS WALLOP CRAX

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 24.—(AP)—Nashville's home run twins, Willie Duke and Dale Alexander, led the Vols' smashing attack today as the home outfit defeated Atlanta, 14 to 4.

Each contributed a home run to remain neck and neck at a dozen apiece in their race for long-distance hitting honors. Calvin Chapman also lashed out a circuit drive, his tenth of the season.

The Vols ran their winning streak to six straight and now are in third place by a game and a half.

LOOKOUTS TRIM SMOKIES

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 24.—(AP)—Bud Tinning's pitching lifted the Lookouts out of the cellar today, Chattanooga taking the second in a four-game series with Knoxville, 6 to 1.

Jimmy Wasdell, leftfielder, had a perfect day at the plate, poling a home run, double and single to account for three of the Lookout's runs. Dutch Meyer hit a circuit wallop to tally the Smokies' lone run.

Larruping Lou Drives In All Of Yankees' Runs In Close Battle

CHICAGO, July 24.—(AP)—The White Sox called on the Yankee jinx, Lefty Thornton Lee, today and Lefty came through with a 10-inning 6 to 5 victory over the New Yorkers.

Chalking up his fifth victory over murderers' row this season, Lee made it two straight for the Sox over the Yanks, three straight setbacks for the New Yorkers, and cut the Yankees' American league lead to five games.

Only Lou Gehrig, who accounted for all five Yankee runs with two homers, was able to do any damage to Lee. Gehrig's first blow, his 17th of the year, came with two aboard in the first inning. His second was clouted out of the lot with a mate on base in the seventh.

Lee bested Lefty Gomez in a tight mound duel when Rip Radcliff's single brought in Dixie Walker with the winning run in the tenth. Gomez was tagged for 11 hits by the Sox. The Yanks collected ten off Lee.

After the Yanks got away to a three-run lead in the first frame, the Sox came back in their half to score two on singles by Jack Hayes and Mike Kreevich, Walker's double, a walk and Luke Appling's grounder.

They tied it up in the second with a run on Luke Sewell's single, Gomez's error and Hayes' grounder, and went ahead in the sixth with two more runs on successive singles by Zeke Bonura, Radcliff and Appling, and Lou Berger's fly.

After Gehrig tied it up again with his homer in the seventh, things went along smoothly until the tenth, when Walker opened with a single, Bonura sacrificed him along, and Radcliff broke up the game.

TRIBE SHADES RED SOX

CLEVELAND, O., July 24.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians defeated the Boston Red Sox here today, 6 to 5, in the eleventh inning to even their series when Roy Hughes, running for Pitcher Joe Heving, slid across the plate after a fly by Roy Weatherly.

Frankie Pytlak started the winning rally with a single but was forced on Heving's bunt. Lyn Lary doubled against the right field wall, sending Heving to third. Then Weatherly came through with a fly to center that sent Heving's substitute home.

Bob Feller was the Indians' starting pitcher but was replaced by Heving in the seventh with the score five to four against him. Feller fanned seven and allowed seven hits.

Buck Newsom, on the hill for Boston, retired in favor of Wilson in the ninth after Pytlak singled and was sacrificed to second. Wilson cut loose a wild pitch on which Pytlak tied the score.

NATS BEAT BROWNS TWICE

ST. LOUIS, July 23.—(AP)—Herculean efforts by Right Fielder Beau Bell, whose eighth and ninth homers tied the score for St. Louis in each game, went for naught today as the Browns' pitchers collapsed, enabling the Senators to take both ends of a double header by scores of 6 to 5.

The Browns were held to five hits in each game as Washington pounded Oral Hildebrand and Elon "Chief" Hogsett for 12 hits in the first contest and collected 14 off the flinging of Julio Bonetti and Bill Trotter in the final, Bonetti being touched for 13 safeties.

Bell's homer in the first game came in the seventh with two mates on base, tying the score, but Pinch Hitter Wes Ferrell's fly scored Buddy Myer with the winning tally. The Texan's circuit blow in the final came in the sixth with Joe Vosmik on board, again knotting the count, but once again it was Wes Ferrell's pinch single which scored Joe Kuhel in the seventh with the winning counter.

LIONS' CATCHER TOPS LOOP WITH AVERAGE OF .343

Receivers Dominate Hitting Department; Zajac Still Leading Hurler

Catchers in the Cotton States league dominated the batting department in the official averages released yesterday.

Harry Chozen, El Dorado receiver, is the league's leading hitter with a mark of .343. "Butch" Helveston, of Vicksburg, Spell, of Helena, and Manager Lena Styles, of Greenville, neither of whom has participated in enough games to be accorded the leadership, are right up at the top of the list. Helveston is batting .413 in 19 games, Spell is hitting .350 in 37 games and Styles is batting .335 in 34 games.

Larry Kinzer, Greenville shortstop, is the second hitter among players who have appeared in more than 50 games with a mark of .325. "Chuck" Bauder, Clarksdale slugger, also is batting .325 for 51 games.

The Vicksburg club is topping the team batting, with .275, followed by El Dorado with .271, Greenville with .268 and Clarksdale with .261. In team fielding, the league-leading Pine Bluff Judges are heading the parade with a .958 mark, followed by El Dorado and Clarksdale with .954, and Greenville with .953.

Henry Zajac, Pine Bluff ace, continued to top the pitchers with 18 victories and three defeats. He is followed by his teammate Humphries, with 11 wins and four defeats. Wimpy Willis, another Pine Bluff hurler, is third with 14 victories and seven defeats.

Walter Butler is hitting at a .274 clip to top the present Monroe squad. The averages, which include games of last Sunday, show that Beauford Rhea, with .328; Cully Rikard and Eddie Hock, each with .285, and Clair Bates, with .276, were carrying the Twins' punch when they left for Texarkana last Saturday.

Ralph "Joe" Pate, who still remains with the Twins, is leading the locals' pitching department with four victories and two defeats. Jack Van Orsdol had ten wins and seven losses when he left and Walter Petraborg is the next in line with six and six. Britton Horton had won six and lost ten.

The averages follow:

HOLLY RIDGE DEFEATS SPEARSVILLE NINE, 5-2

HOLLY RIDGE, La., July 24.—(Special)—With "Curly" Sims hurling two-hit ball, the Holly Ridge Yellow Jackets defeated Spearsville, 5 to 2, here Thursday. Taylor, Spearsville hurler, gave up ten hits.

Harrist and Sinn led the locals' batting attack. S. Taylor hit best for Spearsville.

SARAZEN, SMITH AND ADAMS POST 144 AT HALFWAY

Horton Smith, Laffoon And Foulis One Stroke Back Of Leaders

By William Weekes

CHICAGO, July 24.—(AP)—Squire Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn., and George Smith of Chicago, a pair of well-established professionals, and Harry Adams of the younger set, reached the halfway post of Chicago's big money golfing race today running head and head.

After another long day of touring two sun-baked Medinah Country club courses, the trio shared the lead at 144 strokes, but with plenty of danger at their heels in the quest for the $3,000 victor's share of the $10,000 purse. One stroke back were Horton Smith, Ky Laffoon and Jim Foulis of Chicago. Another lick farther to the rear was Bud Williamson of Fort Wayne, Ind.

National Open Champion Ralph Guldahl, who suddenly warmed up to a brilliant 71, after taking a 76 yesterday; Harry Cooper, who went to the post favored to win the rich pot; Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., Charlie Penna of Chicago and Phil Greenwald, young pro from Madison, Wis., were only three strokes off the leaders' pace at 147, with the 36-hole stretch run coming up tomorrow.

Adams, a stocky youngster who quarterbacked a football team on which Red Grange played at Wheaton, Ill., turned in the prize round of the trio, a sizzling 37-33—70, one under par for the longer number three course. Two bad putting holes cost him a stroke on the first nine, but a pair of birdies coming home gave him his stroke margin over course figures.

His round matched the pace-setting 70 scored by Wild Bill Mehlhorn of Louisville, Ky., yesterday. Mehlhorn dwindled away to a 79 today to drop into a tie with "Slammin' Sam" Snead of West Virginia, runner-up to Guldahl in the last National Open battle, who improved on his opening 76 with a 73.

Sarazen, almost as busy with his farm as with golf, brought in his second straight 72, this one over the number one course. George Smith, a native of Aberdeen, Scotland, whose club duties make his tournament appearances infrequent, matched Sarazen's figures, 35-37, over the route.

Horton Smith added a 72 on number one, to a 73; Laffoon did it the other way around, and put together a 72 and a 73.

Picard, who damaged an arm aboard ship returning from America's successful Ryder Cup invasion of Great Britain, also kicked in with a 70, the third sub-par round of the tournament, hauling himself into contention with a 148. He had plenty of company, however, with Johnny Revolta of Chicago, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., Jimmy Hines of Garden City, L. I., Al Espinosa of Portage, O., Fred Morrison of Los Angeles, Henry Ransom of Bryan, Tex., Bill Heinlein of Indianapolis, Leonard Dodson of Springfield, Mo., and Archie Hambrick, Jr., of Decatur, Ill., at the same figure.

After the two days of sorting out, 57 professionals who scored 154 or better, and 29 amateurs with 159 or lower, were left for the final 36 holes tomorrow.

Gus Moreland, veteran Peoria, Ill., star, remained on top among the amateurs with 149, with the aid of a 75. Two strokes behind him were Dick Price of Wichita, Kan., and Fred Haas, Jr., brilliant youngster from New Orleans.

Mildred Babe Didrikson, Texas' great woman athlete, who shot an 86 yesterday, withdrew after going part way today.

Paul Leslie, Western Amateur champion, turned in a pair of 37's today after his 78 of yesterday. The figures put him second in his division with 152. Dick Price of Wichita, Kan., had 151.

M'DIARMID AND M'NEIL IN CLAY COURT FINALS

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—For the third straight year a western winner of the eastern clay court tennis championship was assured today when bespectacled John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., the Princeton professor, and Don McNeill of Oklahoma City won their way to the finals of the current title play.

McDiarmid, top-seeded favorite, was forced to four sets in defeating Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., the leading Pacific northwest player, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5, 6-1. McNeill, the Kenyon college racquet-wielder who holds the National Junior Indoor crown, breezed through Frank Bowden of New York, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2.

They meet tomorrow for the crown Bobby Riggs of Los Angeles won last year.

McDiarmid and Paul Newton, of Berkeley, Calif., seeded first, and Ernest Sutter, of New Orleans, and Ramsay Potts, of Memphis, Tenn., ranked No. 2, moved into the finals of the doubles tournament McDiarmid and Newton defeated Julius Heldman, of Los Angeles, and George Ball, of El Paso, Tex., 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, while Potts and Sutter topped Robert Kamrath of Austin, Tex., and Lewis Wetherell, of Santa Ana, Calif., 6-8, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5, in their semi-final match.

Arthur C. Montell, Jr., New York, won the veterans championship by defeating another local player, S. Jarvis Adams, Jr., 6-0.

Dust falling in Great Britain has been traced as coming from the Sahara desert, a distance of nearly 2,000 miles.

Nesom, above, athletic director at Bolton High school in Alexandria for the past seven years, has been employed as assistant professor of physical education and freshman football coach at the Louisiana State Normal college at Natchitoches. He will assume his new duties on September 1, two weeks before the fall session opens on September 13. Nesom holds the A. B. and M. S. degrees from Louisiana State university, where he was a member of the varsity football, boxing and track teams for three years from 1927 to 1929.

MEDWICK BOOSTS LEAD IN BATTING

Cardinal Ace Stretches Mark To .410; DiMaggio Threatens Gehrig

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—Ducky Medwick's National league batting lead stretched larger than ever today, while Lou Gehrig's hold on the American league pace seemed shaky, at best, as the result of their respective performances this week.

Medwick collected 13 hits in 34 times at bat during the week ended Friday to keep his season average at .410, a slight drop from his .413 of the previous week. His pace-setting margin was increased, however, since the second-place rivals, Paul Waner of the Pirates and Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, changed places, the former taking the runner-up spot.

Waner, although slumping 10 points, retained a .377 average, while Hartnett dropped 12 points to .376. As a result, Medwick's margin was stretched to 33 points over his nearest rival

In the American league, Joe DiMaggio continued his clouting, getting 14 hits in 38 chances to hold a .362 margin and climb from third place to a tie for second with Cecil Travis of the Senators, who lost ground. Gehrig, meantime, went into a mild slump and lost eight points during the week, falling to .369.

Heaviest hitter of the week was Earl Averill of Cleveland, who travelled at a .500 clip, getting 16-for-32, to take over 10th place in the American league with a .340 mark.

GUNNISON AND LAUREL WIN IN SEMI-PRO TOURNAMENT

LAUREL, Miss., July 24.—(AP)—Gunnison defeated Taylorsville, 8 to 2, and a nine-run outburst in the third inning enabled Laurel to coast to an 11 to 3 victory over Brookhaven today in the state semi-pro baseball tournament here.

Gunnison's win eliminated the Smith county team. Gunnison will play again tomorrow, meeting the winner of the Pontotoc-Waynesboro tilt to be played previously.

James held Taylorsville to five scattered safeties while his north Mississippi mates made 10.

Laurel fell on four Brookhaven pitchers in the third inning before the side was retired. Bill Hilton was the winning pitcher. Tibbs, Brookhaven, hit a homer in the first.

Laurel will enter the finals Monday against the winner of the consolation bracket. Brookhaven may enter another contest before elimination.

TENSAS TIGERS TACKLE HOLLY RIDGE BALL CLUB

ST. JOSEPH, La., July 24.—(Special)—The Tensas Tigers will attempt to snap the 16-game winning streak of Holly Ridge Sunday when the two teams tangle on the local diamond.

Harrick, ace pitcher of the Yellow Jackets, has compiled the long list of victories for Holly Ridge and will be on the mound tomorrow against the locals. George Newman is slated to start on the mound for the Tigers.

Several changes have been made in the personnel of the Tensas club and the local nine is much stronger than at any time this season, according to reports. The game will start at 3:30. The umpire will be Buddy Giles.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, July 24.—(AP)—A decline of from $1.50 to $2.00 a bale in cotton met covering and realizing by shorts in later trading today and the market closed steady at net declines of 13 to 16 points.

Renewed selling on yesterday's Washington advice from a private source mentioning a crop of 14,500,000 bales and saying that the administration felt that unless control measures were taken eight-cent cotton would result, was given as the main cause of the sharp early decline.

October and December contracts dropped below the 11-cent line and, together with other positions, established new lows for the season. Hedging and some short selling together with weak foreign markets were other depressing factors.

In the late buying flurry October rallied from 10.95 and closed at 11.18, while December recovered from 10.85 to finish at 11.20. January closed at 11.21 bid, March at 11.29 bid and May at 11.33 bid. Exports for the day totaled 2,797 bales.

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 13 to 16 points.

Purser Hewitt, Jackson Clarion-Ledger—"If Vicksburg and Monroe quit the Cotton States, as seems inevitable if not already a matter of certainty, the move will strengthen, rather than weaken this great little Class C organization. Poor attendance is blamed at both towns. We have more than once wished we were back in the Cotton States, with Meridian as an additional member. We could have some lively times that way."

The East Arkansas Record, Helena—"One of Mr. Turner's (Glenn Turner, president of the Helena club) first moves was to wire league officials demanding that all transactions of the Vicksburg and Monroe clubs involving disposals of players during the past three weeks be disallowed. That move is believed to have been one of the most effective in preventing withdrawal of the clubs."

PWA NOT TAKING ANY MORE WORK

Future Projects Will Be Carried On Under Direction Of WPA Instead

By Tremain F. Robinson

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24.—The Public Works administration is not taking any more projects. It is not in the market for new business. But the Works Progress administration is.

Under the terms of the $1,500,000,000 relief act passed late in June, the way was paved for closing down PWA and for turning all the business to WPA. All projects not now approved by the former should be sent to the latter. It costs the city, county or state less anyway.

This does not mean that WPA will help finance all projects. It means that the administration considers PWA has served its purpose and is not needed now.

PWA is headed by Harold Ickes and was set up to help pull the heavy goods industries, such as steel and cement, out of the depression. It was designed to help finance works that called for a comparatively heavy outlay for material.

With steel and other such industries going at full blast, it is considered that no "artificial" pump priming is necessary, that no special aid is needed to enable them to keep full payrolls and make money.

WPA is headed by Harry L. Hopkins, is an outgrowth of CWA and FERA and was set up purely to give relief in the form of work instead of a cash handout. It was not intended to help industry by financing projects that required heavy outlays for material, but rather to put most of the money into pay envelopes—the less going into material the better.

Relief to individuals in this manner is still considered necessary, while relief to industries is not. So the act specifies that PWA should wind up its affairs by July 1, 1939.

It says specifically that "after the date of the enactment of this going resolution no allotment shall be made by the administrator for any project the application for which has not been approved by the examining divisions of the administration prior to such date."

The date was June 29.

It adds that no new applications "shall be received or considered."

Projects already approved will sooner or later get funds from PWA in accordance with the applications. But officials say that in view of the specific language of the bill, there is no loophole by which any others can even be considered.

The Works Progress administration operates in an entirely different way but as far as a project is concerned, arrives at approximately the same place PWA did.

Starting out with raking leaves and doing more or less odd jobs as CWA, broadening out through FERA, the Works Progress administration, as it is now called, can build anything or finance any project PWA did, if conditions are right.

Working with WPA, project sponsors throughout the country are putting up an average of only 16 per cent of the total cost, whereas under PWA the best they could do was get a grant of 45 per cent and finance the remaining 55 per cent by themselves or by a loan from PWA.

There are no set rules as to how much sponsors must put up under WPA. This is determined separately for each project.

First of all, for watever project a community wants, it must have enough laborers, who do the kind of work required, on relief in the community. If the project is a brick school requiring 100 bricklayers, there must be 100 bricklayers getting relief in the neighborhood.

Then the project must be socially useful.

If these factors are found to be satisfactory, the sponsor figures out how much money can be put up and how much is needed from WPA. When this is straightened out, plans are drawn and approved. Then the thing works its way through headquarters in Washington and when approved here goes back into the state "pool" of projects, from which the state WPA administrator selects those to be done.

Unlike WPA, all labor for these projects must come from relief rolls and there is no contrast for the work. With PWA a contract was let for the job and the contractor would get labor any place he desired. It is because of this rule for WPA that communities can only get projects for which they have the unemployed laborers available.

It is due to the fact that there are still millions on relief rolls that WPA is still in operation, although the Public Works administration is closing its books.

It requires another act of congress to get a new project approved by PWA, so it appears useless to try, as even influential senators have learned when they tried it. Such federal aid must now come from the Works Progress administration.

FARMERS BECOME PICKLE CONSCIOUS

LAUREL, Miss., July 24.—(AP)—Jones county farmers have become pickle conscious.

Their initial attempt at growing cucumbers, from which pickles are made, netted them nearly $10,000.

The raw material was sold to the pickle plant at Wiggins which last year enlarged activity and contracted eight new counties—Jones, Jasper, Wayne, Rankin, Marion, Pike, Walthall and Lawrence—to grow cucumbers.

J. R. Calhoun, acreage manager, says that between $150,000 and $200,000 is paid out annually for labor and raw material. In Jones county shipping sheds were established at Ellisville and Shady Grove.

"About $40 or $50 was the average income per acre in Jones county but a few who kept active and followed the project through got as high as $200 per acre and a yield of about 15,000 pounds per acre," said Calhoun.

MASS ATTACK ON SYPHILIS BEGUN

Chicagoans Will Be Polled On Question Of Taking Secret Blood Tests

CHICAGO, July 24.—(AP)—Health officers began the country's first mass attack on the syphilis plague today by polling Chicagoans on the question of submitting to free secret blood tests administered by family doctors.

Dr. Louis Schmidt, head of Mayor Edward J. Kelly's committee for control of venereal disease, said that in Chicago the problem has been divorced from superstition, ignorance and false modesty and hence it is "the logical city for the first popular referendum and actual abatement of syphilis."

The plague, he added, can be brought under control just as tuberculosis was a few decades ago.

Dr. Schmidt said returns from the secret ballots, to be mailed to every family in the city at the rate of 50,000 a day, would govern establishment of machinery for administering the tests.

Chicago's 5,500 physicians would be asked to test the blood of their regular patients without charge, the doctor said, and the state and city health departments would be asked to handle most of the laboratory work.

"Undoubtedly there are hundreds upon hundreds of doctors who will be willing to give their time and talent for this project," Dr. Schmidt said. "All necessary supplies would be furnished them; they would give only their time."

Blood samples would be sent to laboratories under code numbers and results of the tests would be confidential between patient and physician. Treatment of those needing it then would be arranged.

R. Oliver C. Wenger, specialist in the United States public health service, explained the tests ultimately would produce for the first time "an actual census of syphilis and it will be out in the open where we can combat it with medical methods."

The first bundle of 250,000 ballots and explanatory letters were mailed today. The federal government furnished two million franked envelopes, including self-addressed folders for return votes.

When the poll is ended, the letters will have put to Chicago's 3,500,000 residents this question:

"In strict confidence and at no expense to you, would you like to be given by your own physician a blood test for syphilis?"

A "yes" or "no" reply is requested.

JACKSON PARISH FOLK SCHOOL BIG SUCCESS

JONESBORO, La., July 24.—(Special)—The third annual Jackson Parish Folk school closed a three-day session here Thursday. The attendance was large with registrations Tuesday totalling almost 500; Wednesday 404, in spite of the fact that bus drivers were attending a convention at Ruston, and could not bring the rural people. The attendance Thursday fell to approximately 300 due to inclement weather.

Dr. Janet Miller, returned medical missionary to central Africa, delivered the inspirational address Tuesday. At the close of the meeting ice cold watermelons were served through the courtesy of the Parish Home Demonstration council.

The inspirational hour Wednesday was used as an amateur program hour at which time numbers by persons from various communities were rendered. This was an innovation, the Jackson Parish Folk school having been the first to have one.

Spencer Phillips of Baton Rouge delivered the inspirational address Thursday.

Miss Mims was unable to visit the school due to the illness of her mother.

Instructional and interesting features were planned and executed for groups of all ages. A free clinic was maintained for children under three years of age.

Charm Of August, Memories Associated With Month, Recompense For Heat

Month Indelible Part Of Life In Southland

Mrs. Sigmund Masur, Arriving At New York, Rushes Home To Meet New Granddaughter

By Eve Bradford

"THE LARK'S on the wing, the snail's on the thorn, God's in His heaven, all's right with the world." Summer is passing and the long rows of cotton turn into snowy drifts. If it were not for the memories associated with the month of August we would like to make a grand hurdle from July to September, thus missing the blistering heat and the breathless nights. The full realization of the year's fulfillment comes during the month of August when the fruits have ripened, gardens have spent themselves and vacation time is nearing its end. We count the days until September with its new responsibilities and the picking up of threads dropped with the beginning of summer.

August is always pleasantly associated with great bursting pods of cotton, ripened by the summer sun—the singing negroes picking the soft fluffiness and cramming it into bags, loading it on wagons ready for the gin. The charm of August has become indelibly a part of our lives so we accept the heat, the dullness socially and await the returned vacationists who turn their faces homeward when summer wanes.

So eager was Mrs. Sigmund Masur to make the acquaintance of her new granddaughter, Sylvia Masur, who arrived when she was on the high seas, she left Mr. Masur in New York and hurried soutward. Sylvia, a beautiful infant with her mother's blonde coloring, is the first granddaughter in the family, so naturally she is being lavished with attention.

Romance stalks the lands these moon-drenched nights. Interesting announcements will be made later. All of which reminds us that all predictions made earlier in the spring have come to pass. Conceding the desire of every human being to know the future—just as Banquo pleade with the witches to unfold it for him equally with Macbeth—it has remained a perplexing question as to the power of the occult to foretell significant events. Occult powers are not necessary to fortell the next wedding, however. The lovely, blonde thing in question is wearing a magnificent sparkler on the "right" finger and the tall, dark admirer is most attentive. Furthermore they have been seen bending over plans for a new home and demonstrating in countless ways that they are "that way" about each other.

Life is made up of small novelties these days. The big moment of the week was hearing Elizabeth Green sing in high flute-like voice "The Lord Is My Shepherd." It was a delightful experience for those seated in the dim recesses of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, to hear this beautiful song rendered with poignant sweetness—it started off the new week in just the right way.

Minta Vaughan was wearing an exquisite corsage fashioned of small yellow lilies, just the color of her hair, when she boarded the train for San Antonio last Friday. It was a going-away gift from Jane O'Donnell, who has just returned from the Texas florists' convention in Fort Worth, and brought home some splendiferous ideas—for instance, she informs us that fern is never, never used in corsages. Very bad form according to the flower stylists who addressed the convention. By the way, selecting yellow flowers to match Minta's hair was another bright little idea gleaned during the convention.

Ann Platt left with her kinfolks—the W. B. Reilys—for a week's visit in New York. To date she has been away from home for one month and has no intention of returning any time soon. When she arrived in New York her brother Layton introduced her to his cronies, and they immediately took her under their wing. At the moment she is being entertained by friends at their summer cottage on Cape Cod, where "the breaking waves dash high on a stern and rock-bound coast."

Mr. and Mrs. George Holmes have named their home "Whispering Pines." Very suitable, don't you think? The stately pines encircling this hospitable home are continually whispering among themselves, telling secrets known only to those "who in the love of nature hold communion with her visible forms." Mrs. Holmes, whose love of home keeps her happy and contented through the changing seasons, vows there are sermons to be found among these whispering pines, not found in books or on the lips of man. There is an eloquence of beauty and a mild and healing sympathy for those who walk under the trees and listen to nature's teachings.

Speaking of trees and things, have you heard about the medicinal powers of the beautiful delphinium growing so luxuriant in your garden just now? Follow this one: "If upon awakening your eyes are red and inflamed, take the dry blossoms and grind them into a powder. Mix with water and smooth on a pad placed over the eyes. You will find immediate relief. It is difficult to beat the old quacks when it comes to prescriptions. They next prescribe distilled juice of larkspur for cooling fever, for settling the stomach and an excellent laxative. "Mixed with equal part of ground chickory root and rosewater it gives strength to weak hearts."

The Allan Sholars have confined their traveling this summer to trips back and forth to the site of their new home on the banks of the lake near Island drive. The plans have been drawn, the contract let, and very soon now the handsome new home of colonial architecture will glorify the picturesque spot they have selected for their future abode.

The closely guarded gates of the Paramount studios in Hollywood will swing open for Carl McHenry and his interesting family as he has a letter from John Gordon, manager of the Paramount theater, this city, enabling him to enter this place of enchantment visited only by those who have the magic key. Mr. Gordon's letter will pass through various hands before it comes finally to Bill Pine, who has the power to bestow favors. We know whereof we speak, as we, too, entered the iron gates and found a welcome such as we never dreamed of. One blissful day was spent with the stars on the studio lot.

Betty Middleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Middleton, invited her most intimate friends to share with her the pleasure of the birthday party at Bernstein park arranged by her mother in commemoration of her 14th anniversary.

A barbecue supper served at long tables under the radiant moon was enjoyed by the celebrant and the following guests: Misses Kathleen Meyers, Floye Rhodes, Jean Tabb, Carolyn Husted, Ann Hayward, Beverly Peevy, Juanita Lippman, Nell Hilburn, Melba Stevenson, Rosemary Colman, Mildred Kelly, and John Edward Hilburn, Ben Francis, A. B. Gregory, Frank Wier, Billy Armstrong, Jack Wimbish, Seab DeLee, "Bubber" Vaughan, Richard Davis, Leroy Atkins and Clarence Barton.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis Oliver, Jr., and Miss Sara Cole Morrison are spending the week-end in Dallas attending the Texas exposition and the presentation of Casa Manana at Fort Worth.

BANDANAS, BLUE DENIM CONTRIBUTE TO FASHIONS

The desert country of the southwest blossoms out with the newest contribution to the American fashion picture—frocks and ensembler made of the familiar bandanas and blue denim of the ranch hands. Designed and made in Santa Fe, N. Mex., the lovely summer costumes sketched are a printed sports model (left) made from two colorful bandanas, a white dress (center) with a bandana bolero and matching sash, collar and stitching; a faded blue denim ensemble (right) finished with silver buttons hand-made by the Indians.

Clothes Displays Bid 'Good-Bye' To Summer

News That 1937 Styles To Revive Mode Of 1900 Sends Curious To Delve Into Magazines Of Period

We have said good-bye to summer insofar as clothes are concerned. The crisp organdies, drooping leghorns and the toeless slippers which intrigued us early in the spring commence to look like last year's bird nests in comparison with the new fall clothes now on display.

The news that this year's styles will be a revival of the mode of 1900 inspires the curious to delve into the dusty files of the women's magazines of the period.

What interest did fashion, food and fiction have for the women three decades and seven years ago? The woman in her forties today was in her childhood then. If she was in her 'teens she was wearing flounced organdies, hand embroidered shirtwaists, feather boas, morning glory skirts and reading "When Knighthood Was in Flower." Along about this time Edward Bok opined editorially that women had proved themselves incompetent in business and noted a definite back-to-the-home movement. After gleaming evidence from the fashion pages of the contemporary magazines, one wonders how women worked at all in straight front corsets, choker collars, pointed toe shoes and long skirts. No wonder they were incompetent! No wonder Mr. Bok could predict what he called "divine division of labor" would mark the twentieth century!

Not the least of woman's emancipation has been the changes in the styles of lingerie in the last 37 years. In a magazine of the 1900's under the caption, "Some Dainty Undergarments," nightgowns with high necks and long sleeves, corset covers with "ruffle extensions," and pantaloon Guignolets which required three yards of 36-inch material, are described. Made of muslin for "everyday" and nainsook for "best," these voluminous garments were not only uncomfortable, but endless hours spent in making and laundering them.

Dress linings ranged from cambric to taffeta and serge bathing suits had high necks, long sleeves and skirts, and the dipped waistline of the blouses were fashion features of the 1900's which none would welcome in a recurrence of style. Perhaps the names "tea gown" and "dressing sack" will not be heard in 1937. But the smart Eton jacket, the becoming bolero, the tricky turnover collar, the graceful drop shoulder yoke and the pretty trimmings — fagoting, embroidery, beading, embroidery and braiding will please the feminine fancy again. How faithful to frippery is womankind!

Less attention was given to food by women's magazines in 1900 than now, judging by a review of three of the leading periodicals. Many recipes for oranges and peanuts indicate they were gradually becoming popular in cooking. Chafing dish recipes were numerous. Stuffed dates and fudge were headliners. Cream cheese served with a lettuce salad was described as "a touch of something new, pretty and satisfying." A menu for a "stand up" affair was ample for a Sunday supper and included chicken salad, fried oysters, brown bread sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee. The frying basket had just made its bow in the kitchen.

Pop was a new beverage. The dean of a girls' school was greatly embarrassed when the minister called and saw a row of pop bottles outside the door. She explained to him that pop is only bottled soda. College news was a regular page feature. Interest in antiques was awakening. Articles on Old Blue Staffordshire, historic pitchers and "The House That Jack and Jill Built" forecast the prevailing passion for old china and furniture.

China painting was a favorite hobby. Knitting was only for baby sacks and socks. Young women made handkerchiefs with drawnwork and edged them with hairpin lace, crocheted yokes for corset covers and nightgowns and did tatting for the little turnover collars which daily freshened the high stocks. Tennis and croquet were sports for women, but they were coveting golfing privileges as indicated by an editorial, "Shall Women Have Equal Rights on Golf Courses?" Photography was popular and kodak manners, even in those days before candid cameras, were not all they should have been. An editor reminded his readers that "the code of good breeding applies to the kodak with just as much force as to any private rights."

How to clean white ostrich plumes, how to put away the flannels for the summer, how to make a dressing case from a kitchen table, how to pack a trunk, how to make a beaded purse, how to make a penwiper, how to make vegetable dyes for rag carpet—these were some of the problems solved by the women's magazines for their readers in those days. They were advised when buying a foulard to get an irregular rather than a set pattern. They were told that the face must always be younger than the dress. Ping pong was the rage. Sun baths were a new health fad. Bird trimmed hats were taboo. Vacation schools were an innovation. The mastication theory of dieting was advanced.

Quiet Of Movies Broken By Talk

How often the quiet of the movies has been broken by, "Oh, I think I've seen this one before; I didn't notice the name of the feature but I probably didn't notice it the first time I saw it either. Maybe I haven't seen it after all—but those Royal Mounties certainly look familiar.

"Maybe it is just the uniforms, as you say—but no—those Canadian woods—I remember them too. Aren't they simply beautiful? No, I'm sure I've seen this picture because I remember that pasty-faced girl—or could I have seen her in 'Live, Love and Learn'? Anyway she doesn't have much personality, do you think? Of course her figure is grand—just wait until you see her all wet—she's going to turn that canoe over—looks like she's dropped her oar—those rapids aren't so much—not very scary. Oh, I'm sure now I've seen it because in just a minute she's going to fall in the water and it turns out not so very deep after all—see, just like I told you, she is wading to the shore.

"Look, that mountie knows she isn't telling him her real name—why, because there's a different initial on her cigarette case. Oh, yes, now I know, she's trying to keep her identity a secret until she locates the miner who shared a mine with her father—he has been robbing her of the gold for years. Yes, the whole story comes back to me now. In a few minutes you will see a good fight. Don't you just adore a fist fight right on the edge of a cliff? But don't worry— when she falls off now in just a minute, she falls to the edge of a ledge that's only a little way down—and then she waits there for the mountie to come and get her.

"And my dear, the ending is simply grand—you'll love it. He kisses her right in mid-air while they're being drawn up on a rope—and you won't even be worried about the rope breaking. She has such a marvelous figure. Oh, she weighs quite a lot but the rope looks nice and new. You'd like to see me on the end of a rope? you say? Oh, my dear, how sweet of you to say so, but I'm much too heavy to get into the movies—I am going on a new diet tomorrow—believe it or not, I weigh 115, and I simply must do something about it.

"There—see? What did I tell you? Cute, wasn't it?"

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McCord left last week for Philadelphia, where they visited Mr. McCord's brother, Mr. B. J. McCord, before continuing their vacation in New York City and points in Canada.

Miss Culver Reports Library Reader Gain

More People Than Ever Now Taking Advantage Of Free Use Of Books; Drama Demanded

Miss Essae Culver, executive secretary of the Louisiana Library commission, reports a greater number of readers this year than in any previous time in the history of the library.

Miss Culver says, "If the tastes of readers of the Louisiana Library commission are an indication, the drama is the big thing of the moment. A large number of plays are being read at the moment than ever before by residents of the state who borrow books from the commission. From the current Broadway successes to the old standbys of the stage, the plays which are included among the commission's collection of books are in great demand.

Most demanded at the moment, of course, is the Pultizer prize winner, "You Can't Take It with You" by Moss Hart and George Kaufman, which apparently everyone wants to read, library commission workers say.

There are other plays though which are almost as popular. "Boy Meets Girl" by Bella and Samuel Spewack, "Strange Interlude," "Ah! Wilderness" and "Mourning Becomes Electra" by Eugene O'Neill, "Having Wonderful Time" by Arthur Kober, "Of Thee I Sing" by George S. Kaufman and Morris Ryskind, "The Wingless Victory" by Maxwell Anderson, and plays by Clifford Odets are among those of the library commission's supply which are much in demand.

Popular for summer reading is "The Green Pastures" by Marc Connelly, adapted from Roark Bradford's "Ol' Man Adam and His Chillun" and all of Noel Coward's plays. "Pride and Prejudice," dramatized by Helen Jerome and "The Old Maid," dramatized by Zoe Atkins from Edith Wharton's novel are also leaders among the library commission's readers.

The interest in reading plays is apparent in all sections of the state, Miss Culver said. Requests for books of plays come in constantly from the library commission's borrowers in every corner of Louisiana.

This interest in the state is reflected in the country as a whole where there has been a general demand for plays, according to reports received from librarians all over the nation by Miss Culver. Many library workers report that a large percentage of their circulation is of plays.

Current Broadway successes and plays which have had successful runs on Broadway are most in demand among the commission's readers, generally speaking, Miss Culver said. Plays which have had extensive advertising are those which the borrowers want to read.

The readers apparently go largely by name, Miss Culver said. Everything that Maxwell Anderson, Robert Sherwood, Noel Coward or Eugene O'Neill writes finds a reader. "The Petrified Forest" and "Idiot's Delight" are still being asked for by readers.

Plays made into movies also result in demands for them in printed form, Miss Culver finds. The copies are used by students, by clubwomen who are studying the stage and by just the general reader, who wants something interesting. Especially popular in the summer, the plays also interest a large group in the winter.

The plays in the library commission's collection may be borrowed by any resident of the state, Miss Culver said.

The beautiful gardens of the Henry Biedenharn home, "Bethaven," needed only the glamorous moon to perfect the setting for the barbecue supper planned by Mr. and Mrs. Biedenharn for their sister, Miss Ann Scott, of Hazelhurst, Miss., last night.

Individual tables are grouped on the spacious strip of lawn in the rear gardens for the serving of the barbecued chickens and all the delectable accessories. Servants passed continuously among the guests with aperitifs.

Enjoying the gay informality and the gracious courtesies extended by these genial hosts were Miss Scott and Charles Rodriguez, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Lamkin, Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Bancroft, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Slagle, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Black, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Haas, Mr. and Mrs. D. Y. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Burgess, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, Mr. and Mrs. John Sherrouse, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sullivan, Mrs. Louise Kellogg, Mrs. Merrill Bush, Mr. Kenneth Brown, Mr. F. G. Hudson, Judge and Mrs. David Garrett.

Misses Dorothy Calvert and Miss Laura Grace Kendall are enjoying a visit in Baton Rouge as the house guests of Mrs. J. B. Whitworth. They will also visit friends in New Orleans before returning home.

Thomas Sullivan, Jr., has returned from a month's visit with his sister, Mrs. Jack Hancock, and Mr. Hancock of Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. And Mrs. A. P. Ryan Entertain With Barbecue At Plantation Home

Entertainment Fetes Miss Rhymes' Guests

Glamorous Night, Idyllic Rendezvous, Give Atmosphere Of Old South To Elaborate Outdoor Party

With balmy nights and starry skies beaming down on us, hostesses make the most of their gardens for out-of-door entertaining. Barbecues, the southland's favored summer time mode of entertainment, nightly claim congenial groups.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Ryan's plantation home on Beouf river, far removed from the heat of the city, is an idyllic summer rendezvous for their friends who always find a genuine welcome, reminiscent of the old south, awaiting them. A barbecue, on a more pretentious scale than customary, was planned by these hospitable hosts last week complimentary to Miss Robertine Rhymes' house guests, Miss Mary Frances Parnell and Messrs. Carl Helmstetter and Joseph Bynum of Dermott, Ark.

A full moon shining through the giant trees which cathedralize the groups, and the plantation darkies singing spirituals, added glamour to the night.

The supper was served by the white-clad colored servants who passed among the guests with trays of barbecued chicken, and a varied assortment of meats. All the delectable foods associated with a barbecue supper were found on long tables covered with colored linens. Frosted drinks were passed continuously.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryan were assisted by their mother, Mrs. Stella Byargeon, in extending courtesies to the following guests: Miss Robertine Rhymes and Carl Helmstetter, Miss Mary Frances Parnell and Bob Hanna, Miss Helen Earle and John Strahan, Miss Laura Grace Kendell and Dicky Lee, Miss Marjorie Smith and Jimmy Hayward, Miss Peggy Bubb and Leo Montgomery, Miss Mary Francis Crow and Buddy Bubb, Miss Florence Jane Morely and Tim Shea, Miss Evelyn Delaney and Kirk Morely, Miss Virginia Husted and Boyd Grant, Miss Marjorie Farmer and Henry Biedenharn, Miss Virginia Earl Kersh and Tootsie Faser, Miss Libby Haynes and Harry Underwood, Miss Dot Graves and Leon McHenry, Miss Jane Gregory and T. Special State Awards

READ THESE RULES CAREFULLY
1—Think of your suggestion for naming the little Snowdrift men pictured here. "Bake and Fry", for instance, or the "Freshness Twins"; the "Creaminess Boys", "Snow and Drift" or "The Goodness Team." Write your suggestion on any kind of paper or on the entry blank. Print plainly your name and address, and name and address of your grocer.
2—Buy a can of Snowdrift. Unwind the metal strip that seals any size Snowdrift can. Clip off that portion of the wording on the strip which says, "We lock in all its goodness." Enclose this piece of strip in envelope with your name suggestion and addresses, and mail to "Award Editor, P.O. Box 994, New Orleans, La." That constitutes an entry. Entries will not be considered unless metal strip accompanies each name suggestion. For example, "Bake and Fry" needs one strip, "The Creaminess Boys" one strip.
3—Every entry, duly accompanied by metal strip, will be acknowledged, and in appreciation we will mail you a coupon acceptable by your grocer as 10c against the purchase of your next 3 or 6 pound can of Snowdrift. Because of the large number of suggestions, we cannot enter into any further correspondence with any entrant. No entry will be returned.
4—Contest closes September 15th, 1937. All entries must be postmarked prior to midnight of that date. All entries become the property of the Wesson Oil and Snowdrift Sales Company. Judging will be directed by officials of the Calkins & Holden Advertising Agency, New York, and of the Fitzgerald Advertising Agency of New Orleans. Decision of the judges will be final. Anyone may submit suggestions, in conformity with the rules, except employees of the Wesson Oil & Snowdrift People, their advertising agencies, or their families.
Duplicate awards will be made in case of ties. A complete list of winners will be published as soon after decision as possible.
5—State awards will be made only to entrants from states listed on this advertisement, but the 588 other prizes are open to any one in the U. S. except as specified in Rule No. 4.

CHAPTER XIII

The two reporters slept late next morning and so missed some pertinent conversation incident to the search for Paul Colter.

Sheriff Watson arrived at the Lodge just at daybreak. He hadn't slept, and he wanted coffee badly enough to arouse the Lodge cook for it. Stuart Blake, deeply concerned over the matter anyway, was awakened by the sheriff's arrival and came out promptly.

"What luck?" Stuart asked anxiously, there in the kitchen.

"Plenty; maybe too much," was the laconic reply.

"What—what is it? Did you find Paul Colter?"

"Set down," the sheriff commanded. "I'll sip and tell you. We found him, right enough. We wasn't expecting it just that minute, but the dog run off to one side and growled. We went over there and by george there was Paul's body. That was about sundown. Old man Colter and that Silas, they sure took it on the chin."

Stuart was staring as if entranced. The sheriff resumed.

"Paul's body wasn't much bothered. We got his gun. It hadn't been shot. And he had some water and grub left, to. Damned if I can say yet what killed him, till we can git a doc to see the body. But there's one thing more—this."

The sheriff had reached into his coat pocket and removed a handful of rocks, four or five of them the size of walnuts.

"These here, Blake, are the daggondest pieces of ore I've ever laid my eyes on! I've hung around mines all my life, and I've never seen rocks that showed more gold!"

Stuart took the pieces and fingered them. The sheriff had not exaggerated at all. The pieces seemed to be two-thirds virgin metal—the prettiest possible deposits of free gold. Stuart knew nothing of ore specimens, but even he could sense the extreme wealth of them.

"Then he found his treasure!" Stuart breathed. "Even though he died!"

"I reckon he must've. This shows it, right enough. I sent the body back by some of the boys, with the Colter men, and I looked around. I couldn't find no claim monument, in the starlight. I looked the best I could around where we found him, and I couldn't see no more gold."

"But—but—where did you pick these up, Mr. Watson?"

"Right outen his hand! I'm telling you his fingers was clutched stiff around this gold! He knowed what he had, son! He must've been headin' out to tell it. But don't let it out, yet. Say nothing. Don't want no gold rush up here. It's Colter's anyway, if anybody's."

The sheriff was more excited than a sheriff is supposed to be, but then he hadn't such a case before.

He swigged two cups of coffee, warmed himself by the stove, and finally regained his judicial calm. He was obviously doing some deep thinking, because he didn't speak any more except with "yes" or "no" for several minutes. Stuart went outside to see the cowboys and the guide who had ridden with the officer, and brought them in for coffee.

When they had gone back to their horses, Sheriff Watson lingered with Stuart again.

"Lemme ask you something, young man," he began. "When did you first meet this here Paul Colter?"

"Why, when I first got to town. To Phoenix, I mean. I ran into him in a clothing store, Potter's Store. Sells saddles and such, and—"

"Um huhm. I know. You and him had a little set-to there. Right?"

"Yes, sir. In a way. Nothing serious, but—"

"But he took a shot at you with his gun! Wasn't no accident—now was it?" He eyed Stuart hard.

"Well, no; since you ask. Matter of fact it wasn't. But it waan't important. Misunderstanding. I got a sock on the jaw out of it, and I deserved it. The boy's sister—"

"Never mind. I know about you and the sister, too. Now you was up in the mountain the other day by yoreself, and happened to get into some trouble. That right?"

"No! Not that kind of trouble, I mean. My horse got killed, but he fell over a cliff. You see, my dad had been shot at, and—"

"Your dad?"

"Yes. Why?"

The sheriff eyed Stuart keenly again. Stuart was obviously confused by the trend of the questioning.

"You mean yore own pappy, old man Blake, was up there and got shot at?"

"Yes! He was shot at, and never saw who did it! They might have killed him!"

"Hmmmm! I hadn't got that," the sheriff mused aloud. "Well, listen—did you know old man Colter, Paul's brother, had been shot at too?"

"No!"

"Fact. He swore to it, and one bullet creased his hip. I saw the wound. And now you say yore pap done likewise, leastwise got shot at. Colter said he hadn't done no talking about it, but was laying low and waiting. I'll question yore old man before I leave, but I reckon it'll be the same tale. This puts a new slant on it all, though."

"I don't get it," said Stuart flatly.

"I don't neither, now," the officer admitted. "I thought I had something doped out, but maybe I ain't, with yore own pap mixed in it.

"I'll tell you, son, what I had figured. Old man Colter and that Silas—they had it doped out that you slipped up and put Paul Colter out of the way because he shot at you in the store. They figure you killed him."

"Me?" Stuart almost shouted it, so astounded was he. He had forgotten that Carolee told him the same thing.

"Yep, you. I sort of put two and two together on it myself, and it looked possible. Now it don't."

That evoked a lot more talking, but it didn't net anything. Pretty soon Stuart remembered that Paul had been found dead. He knew Carolee would be under great stress by it.

"I've got to go at once," he told the sheriff. "That girl—Carolee Colter—I'm fond of her. Fact is, Mr. Watson, I think a great deal of her. I'll go up there and do what I can."

The sheriff grabbed his arm.

"Nope you won't!" he commanded. "You stay away from them Colters. I don't know nothing about the women, but I been talking to the men. One killin' is enough in this case."

Stuart did a lot of thinking during the next hour or so.

"If somebody shot old man Colter," he told himself, "then we both have a third party to contend with. But who?"

Then a thought stuck him, a possible answer. "The sheriff! Watson! He knew everything. He tried to minimize the accidents and the shootings. He wanted the gold discovery kept secret! Then he could go up there undisturbed, ostensibly hunting clews to Paul's murderer! Jump any claim he found! Sa-a-a-ay . . .!"

pained so I could hardly stand my weight on them and often it was impossible to put on my shoes. Then, too, my kidneys were disordered and continually causing me trouble. I got little sleep and then it was usually from exhaustion and not a natural sleep. I was growing worse every day and could not find anything to help me but when I heard of Gly-Cas, I decided it surely must be different—and I found it the very medicine I should have had all these years."

"Gly-Cas brought about a great change in my condition within a few days," continued Mrs. Oliver. "My bowels were soon regulated, kidneys began to function properly removing those dreadful rheumatic pains and swelling. I now sleep fine, my energy is returning and I am really feeling like a new person. Sufferers need not doubt Gly-Cas' merit for it is all it is claimed to be and more."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug company, 348 DeSiard street, this city, and by all the leading drug stores in surrounding towns. —Adv.

CONSERVATION STUDY IS MADE

Soil Preservation Gains Attention Of Land Owners

"Increasing interest is being shown in erosion control work in the Arcadia Camp area, according to the last fiscal year's report," said Clinton W. Loe, technician in charge of this unit of the Ruston soil conservation service.

Definite progress is being made by the farmers in instituting soil conservation service practices on their farms. New methods of erosion control are in evidence on 83 farms having a total area of 17,915 acres. This figure represents approximately a 200 per cent increase over last year.

Treatment has been completed on 5,287 acres during the fiscal year, 1936-37 and 8,447 acres are still under treatment.

Winter cover crops, although a relatively new farming practice to this section, were planted on 371 acres by cooperators of the soil conservation service.

Acres protected by strip crops have been increased by 1,372 acres, making a total of 2,372 in this camp area.

Another practice, that of sodding and the revegetation of pastures, is being received with considerable enthusiasm by the cooperators. 128 acres have been streak-sodded during the past year. In conjunction with this phase of the soil conservation service program, 45 acres of meadow strips were planted. These meadow strips are substituted for outlet channels whenever possible and used to carry water off the field.

A very marked increase has been made in the number of acres terraced by the Arcadia camp. This work has been increased three-fold over all previous years, making a total of 2,717 acres terraced by Camp No. 7.

Numerous inquiries about the soil conservation program and the spread of practices outside of the camp area, have been the best evidence of the progress of erosion control work of the service.

"With good prospects for a bumper crop this year, it is expected that the farmers will do more than ever before in the effort to conserve their soil," remarked Mr. Loe.

PROGRESS MADE ON BAPTIST BUILDING

Two big days' work, Friday and Saturday, were performed on the construction of the new educational building of the Monroe First Baptist church. After continuous labor on the part of many of the workmen, in some cases 29 hours without cessation, the third floor and supporting columns were poured.

The third floor, like the other two floors, is one solid concrete slab. Frank Masling, contractor, estimated that the weight of steel and concrete in the third floor is fully 573 tons.

Workmen are now preparing to "jack up" the roof another 10 feet to make room for the next floor. Completion of the concrete work for the entire building will be finished in five weeks if the present rate of progress is continued.

The church has set a goal of $1,000 in contributions for the building fund in July and at present approximately $750 has been received.

S. T. BURNS WILL HAVE ASSISTANT

Lloyd Funchess Named To Aid State Music Supervisor

BATON ROUGE, La., July 23.—(Special)—Lloyd Vance Funchess of Oberlin has been named assistant to S. T. Burns, supervisor of music in the state of Louisiana, according to announcement by T. H. Harris, state superintendent of education. Mr. Funchess, for the past seven years head of the reeds department in the Louisiana State university school of music, will assume his new duties in August, having been granted a leave of absence from the university.

His appointment came as a result of the rapid growth of the school music system installed under Mr. Burns' supervision in 1934, necessitating the work of an assistant over the state, it is announced. When the state music system was begun in the fall of 1934, only 14 of the 67 school units in Louisiana included music instruction by 67 teachers, most of whom were part-time. Of these, 47 were employed in the Orleans parish schools, leaving 20 teachers of music over the other parts of the state. The rapid development of the system, which Mr. Burns believes is spectacular in the United States, is shown in the fact that in 1935-36, 36 school units had adopted the music program, with 102 teachers, 53 of whom were outside Orleans parish. In 1936-37, the units increased to 51, with 147 teachers, 98 outside Orleans parish.

MUSIC ASSISTANT

The program is divided into three parts, the vocal instruction for elementary grades, vocal instruction for high school grades, and general instrumental instruction. The number of music teachers in each parish depends upon the finances, and on what phases of the state program have been adopted. All supervisors work with Mr. Burns and Mr. Funchess through their parish superintendents.

Mr. Funchess, who has been a member of the university faculty since 1929, and head of the reeds department since its establishment in 1930, holds the bachelor of arts degree in English, the bachelor of music degree in voice, and the master of arts degree in psychology from the Louisiana State university. He has been director of music in the State School for the Blind since 1932, and a member of the music faculty there since 1930.

For two summers he served as counsellor at the National High school band and Orchestra camp at Interlochen, Mich., and at the Limberlost Music camps at LaGrange, Ind. For three years he directed the Louisiana State university men's Glee club, and for seven years was a member of the University Symphony orchestra, playing oboe and clarinet.

MANUFACTURERS GROUP TO MEET

State Association Will Hold Five Sessions, First In Monroe Monday

The Louisiana Manufacturers' association will hold a series of group meetings throughout the state this week, the first to be held at Hotel Virginia, Monroe, Monday at 10:30 a.m.

Sam Dunbar, secretary of the group, will head a delegation from New Orleans that will be present.

It is urged that all manufacturers of Monroe and vicinity attend. Farmers, attorneys, bankers and those engaged in wholesale and retail lines are asked to make special effort to attend.

It is stated that the program of this group is even more important than was the NRA. Fair labor standards, Act of 1937, approve more control affecting not only all business but the entire community, it was explained.

Besides the Monroe meeting there will be other similar district sessions held as follows:

Shreveport, Washington-Youree hotel, Tuesday at 10:30 a.m.; Alexandria, Bentley hotel, Wednesday, 10:30 a.m.; Lake Charles, Association of Commerce building, Thursday, 10:30 a.m.; New Orleans, Friday, Jung hotel, 10:30 a.m.

CLARKSON RETURNS FROM LIONS MEET

A. B. Clarkson, delegate to the Lions International convention in Chicago last week, returned home Saturday morning. He reported that the 20th homecoming, as the convention was termed, was the most successful and largely attended of any that has ever been held. More than 8,000 were present.

Programs were especially fine and constructive, Mr. Clarkson said. The business meetings were well attended, with 3,000 to 4,000 present at each one held.

The next convention will be held in Oakland, Calif. The incoming president is Frank Birch, Milwaukee, Wis.

Louisiana sent 44 delegates to the convention. This was 14 more than the state sent in 1930 to Denver, Colo. Up to this year 39 was the largest number from this state ever attending a similar meeting.

M. G. Moore, of Monroe, who went as a delegate, did not return at the close of the convention. He made a busines trip to Cincinnati, O.

CAMP FIRE TO START OUTING

Will Conduct Encampment At Ki-Ro-Li During Week

The annual summer camp at Ki-Ro-Li of the Monroe Camp fire girls will be initiated with a barbecue luncheon at the grounds today at noon. The encampment period will close after breakfast on Saturday morning. Enrollments have been received for this camp ever since July 15, and Mrs. Charles M. Mitchell, Camp Fire council president, stated Saturday that a large and successful camp is in prospect.

Mrs. Mitchell will be assisted by Mrs. F. B. Neely, Mrs. J. C. Cobb, and Mrs. A. E. Dopson in conducting the encampment.

Camp activities will include swimming, singing, camp craft, hand craft and nature lore.

Girls will be taught to swim, and to pass Red Cross life saving tests. There will be a special choir of girls and many new Camp Fire songs will be taught. Hand craft will be made interesting by many new lines of activity, Mrs. Mitchell said.

Dr. G. M. Snellings will be camp physician and a trained nurse will be employed to see that the health of the campers is maintained.

BOND NOT FIXED IN NEWSOM CASE

Bond had not been fixed Saturday in the case of Hugh Newsom, former deputy clerk of court charged with assault to commit murder, pending the outcome of injuries suffered by Curtis Clark who is said to have been knifed by Newsom at his home Wednesday night, and who is in Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic. Clark's condition Saturday was said to be satisfactory.

Newsom is alleged to have gone to his wife's home where he attacked Mrs. Newsom and her two brothers, Curtis and James F. (Buddy) Clark, with a pocket knife, slashing his wife across the stomach, stabbing Curtis in the back and cutting the fingers on Buddy's right hand. Mrs. Newsom and Buddy were treated at their home after the attack.

Newsom, who is being held in the Ouachita parish jail, refused to make a statement or give any reason for his action. Shortly after the stabbing took place, Newsom is said to have fled to a brother's house at Sikes, where he was arrested by Winn parish officers and returned to Monroe.

POLICE COMMENDED BY FEDERAL AGENT

Chief of Police Frank V. Reitzell Saturday received a letter from the United States department of justice at New Orleans, commending him and other officers of the Monroe police department for their part in apprehending Lasco Franklin, wanted by the federal authorities for violating the national motor vehicle theft act, who was arrested here July 6.

The letter, signed by J. A. Smith, Jr., special agent in charge of the New Orleans office, is as follows:

"My dear Chief: I wish you to know my sincere appreciation of the work done by your department in effecting the apprehension of Lasco Franklin on July 6, 1937, who was a fugitive wanted by this bureau for violation of the national motor vehicle theft act. I understand that Sergeant Ward and Officers L. S. Meek, H. L. Tolbert, H. E. Webb and W. M. EXPERT ADVISES CHECK OF LIGHTS

Dodge Official Addresses Timely Suggestions To Motoring Public

A timely safety note, addressed especially to vacation bound motorists, comes from W. R. Bamford, service director of the Dodge Division of Chrysler corporation. Mr. Bamford's concern is with the dangers lurking in automobile headlights which because of faulty use or maintenance neglect are not functioning with original efficiency.

In support of his contention that faulty lights are the underlying cause of many accidents, Mr. Bamford cites the fact that though only one third of all automobiles travel after dark, nearly two-thirds of the serious mishaps occur during the night hours. While official vigilance and driver education are undoubtedly effecting a decrease in the number of day accidents, this safety gain is almost entirely offset by increases in mishaps happening after dark.

To impress motorists with the truth that defective lights are responsible for night driving [illegible] and that proper service care [illegible] will eliminate that danger, Mr. Bamford points out that [illegible] factor as the age of a [illegible] may reduce the effective [illegible] per cent and more. 'Between Two Women' Showing At Paramount Today

Fresh from her triumphs in "The Good Earth" and "The Great Ziegfeld," for which she won the 1936 academy award, lovely Luise Ranier now comes to the Paramount screen three days starting Tuesday as the glamorous, Adrian-gowned heroine of "The Emperor's Candlesticks," in which she is co-starred with William Powell for the third time.

Romance comes into the life of hard-riding, square-shooting "Hopalong" Cassidy in the latest of the Clarence E. Mulford outdoor action stories, "North of the Rio Grande," which is playing today and Monday at the Capitol theater.

Jane Withers and Robert Kent have the leading roles in the Paramount feature, "Angel's Holiday," which plays next Friday and Saturday. In the picture, Jane decides to take charge of uncle's newspaper . . . and what news she can't scare up, she makes.

"Between Two Women," starring Franchot Tone, Maureen O'Sullivan, Virginia Bruce, is the current attraction at the Paramount theater.

Tone, Bruce, O'Sullivan In Cast Of Film

Stellar Cast Playing In Cast Of Hospital Drama Which Opens Today

A MOTION pictrue that might well have been filmed in some modern city hospital, "Between Two Women," opens today at the Paramount theater. The story not only presents authentic atmosphere, but enlivens the realism of its settings with a moving story of love in which two women concentrate on one bewildered and courageous man.

Franchot Tone, as a young and ambitious interne, gives his role a sympathetic understanding that brings the character into bold relief. Virginia Bruce, blonde and beautiful, makes an effective heiress who falls in love with him. Maureen O'Sullivan plays the role of a hospital nurse, unhappily married, who also loves the doctor, secretly.

He marries the heiress. Too late, he discovers that infatuation is not love. His wife becomes interested in another surgeon, a colleague in the hospital. Fate ironically offers him the opportunity to choose between love and duty. The husband of the nurse is brought in for an immediate amputation. If he lives, the young surgeon cannot hope for the love of the woman he desires. If he dies, the way is open for both. The doctor operates and a life is saved.

That, briefly, is the story. It is enacted on a large scale with the tremendous resources of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios to give it magnitude. The hospital scenes are strikingly effective and the acting of an excellent cast is good throughout.

Appearing in support are Cliff Edwards, as a reporter, Helen Troy, as a telephone operator, Janet Beecher, veteran of the Broadway stage, as head nurse, Leonard Penn, the actor-husband of Gladys George, as a sadistic surgeon, and Charley Grapewin, Grace Ford, June Clayworth, Edward Norris, Anthony Nace and Hugh Marlowe. George Seitz was the director.

The story is an original written by Erich Von Stroheim, one of the most picturesque figures in Hollywood, formerly one of its ace directors.

Real Estate Transfers

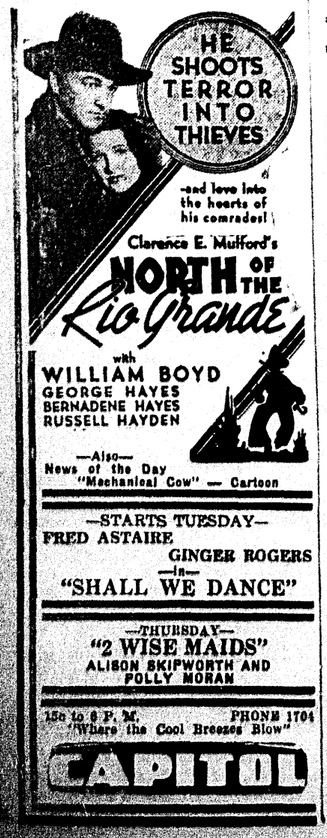
The following real estate transactions were recorded in the clerk's office Saturday:

Mrs. Josephine Cline and Frank X. Cline sold to the Ouachita parish school board a lot in square two of Layton's first addition to Monroe, the consideration being $5,000. This property adjoins land on which the new Ouachita Parish High school educational and athletic building is under construction and was purchased by the school board because it was found that more space was needed for the new building.

W. L. Crowell sold to Mrs. Eunice Russell, lot 20 of G. B. Haynes' subdivision of southeast quarter of northeast quarter and west half of northeast quarter and southeast quarter of southwest quarter, section 16-17-3 east, the consideration being $100.

About 15 months are required to season the wood used in the ordinary process of making matches.

STARTS TODAY



Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in "Shall We Dance," at the Capitol Tuesday and Wednesday.

REITZELL ELECTED MEMBER OF IACP

Frank V. Reitzell, chief of police of Monroe, has just been elected to membership in the International Association of Police Chiefs, according to word received from Wilmington, Del., secretarial headquarters of the organization.

This association has as its primary function the advancement of standards of police administration through the cooperation of officials in this country and abroad.

"Affiliation with the IACP indicates that an officer realizes the importance and responsibility connected with his endeavors as a police executive and that he desires to contribute to, and derive benefit from, the professional organization concerned with the solution of technical police problems," according to the information received here.

The International Association of Police Chiefs, established in 1893, has promoted the use of improved methods of communication, identification, crime prevention and many other police procedures.

M'CLARY RETURNS

Boyd Stars In 'Hoppy' Role Again

Latest 'Hopalong' Cassidy Film Showing At Capitol Theater Today

IN "North of the Rio Grande" which comes to the Capitol theater today, William Boyd plays the role of "Hopalong Cassidy" for the eleventh consecutive time.

When Producer Harry Sherman selected Boyd to portray this character, he made his choice after combing a long list of Hollywood actors who were eager to play this part. The character, as created in the novels of Clarence E. Mulford, was so well-known by millions of Mulford readers that great care was necessary to find a prototype that would be acceptable to them. Boyd's choice has met with the approval of the Mulford readers as well as those of the movie fans, judging by the success of these popular western stories.

In the eleven pictures thus far made Boyd has been called upon to contribute nearly every shade of dramatic portrayal known to the art. His present adventure in which he and his two partners, "Windy," played by George Hayes and "Lucky," played by Russell Hayden, hunt down the killers of his younger brother and put them to route is totally different from any which has gone before, and yet the two main characters "Hoppy" and "Windy" retain much of the personalities which they have built and in which they have become as much a part of the general pattern as the rugged scenery, fast action and stirring drama of the old west.

LOCAL SONS OF LEGION NAME 2 NEW OFFICERS

A regular meeting of the Sons of the American Legion was held at the American legion home recently. The meeting was well attended and reports were made by various members who attended the recent state legion convention held in Monroe.

On account of the removal of Watson Dupont, sergeant-at-arms, and Marion Dupont, historian, to Vicksburg, it was necessary to elect two new officers to these posts. Charles Landon Chambers was elected sergeant-at-arms and Leonard Rosedale was elected historian.

A discussion was held in reference to the possibilities of forming a drum and bugle corps and necessary steps are being taken and plans formulated for the formation of a corps.

LUMBER HEADER CREDITS TRADE INCREASE TO FHA

Cites Advanced Wage Scales, Sales Volume As Proof Of Interest

PASSIAC, N. J.—The Federal Housing administration's program was directly responsible for increasing by 85 per cent the volume of business done by the building-supply industry during the first six months of 1937, according to Roy E. Sweney, president of the Passaic-Bergen Lumber company.

"Conditions in the industry," he said, "have improved rapidly since the new mortgage plan became operative. Wage scales advanced substantially, a pronounced increase in the number of employes was apparent, and the volume of purchases by the retail dealer ran 75 per cent ahead of the like period a year ago. This produced better wage scales and greater employment throughout the mills in the south, middle west, and far west, increased production 30 per cent, which produced more tonnage for the railroads and merchant marine.

"It is needless to say that this great achievement was attained through the proper and efficient administration of the National Housing act through the Federal Housing administration."

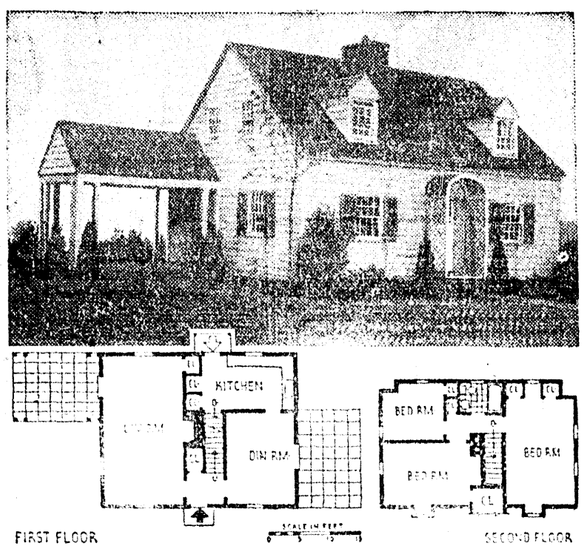
Mr. Sweney stated that since the inauguration of the program his company has arranged approximately $1,500,000 of Federal Housing administration insured mortgages. This amount represents 258 individual projects in 10 northern New Jersey counties. Of these, 90 per cent were arranged with individual owners of vacant property and 10 per cent with operative builders.

"It is my belief," Mr. Sweney said, "that during 1937 and 1938 New Jersey will lead the United States in new construction with the aid of the new type of home financing offered by our government through its agency, the Federal Housing administration."

CHECK PIERS

If your house is built on piers or if you have a porch supported on piers, it would be a good idea to examine them occasionally to see that they are plumb and have not settled. If they are of brick or tile or concrete units, see that the joints are not cracked and that the mortar is solid in the joints. Settling or crumbling piers will cause settlements in the house itself that will set up a train of event whose ultimate results are many and various—cracked plaster, hammering radiators, trapped water lines, sloping floors, etc.

Quaint Details Borrowed From Colonial Builders



Colonial cottage lines distinguish this trim white clapboard home in Norwalk, Conn. Its characteristic features include the corners, small 16-light windows, elliptical entrance shelter and the low, square chimney. The house is conventional in plan as well as exterior design; three bedrooms and bath upstairs, while a central chimney and stairway divide living room from dining room and kitchen. Architect Alfred W. Grant designed this house. The plan was selected by the Architectural Forum, 135 E. 42nd street, New York, N. Y.

Infinite Variety Is Offered In Designs, Colors Of Tile

In spite of the fads for other wall and floor coverings, tile still keeps its popularity, and justly so, for it has beauty, permanence and practicability. The infinite variety in colors and the different designs available give the architect's and decorater's ingenuity full scope.

In addition to use in the bathroom, tile finds a fitting place in the kitchen, the entrance hall, the sun room and on the terrace, not only for its decorative value but because it can be cleaned so easily and is impervious to water.

For the kitchen the high-gloss tiles give an air of cleanliness that appeals to any housewife, but the colored matt-faced tiles are almost as easy to clean and give a softer, warmer tone that makes the room a pleasanter place. We must not make our kitchen too sanitary-looking; the effect upon the cook is apt to be a bit depressing. Bright colors have a real mental reaction, and one can feel happier in a pink or yellow room than one can in a room that reminds one of the hospital.

For the entrance and sun room fairly tiles make beautiful walls, and matched tiles at corners and around window or door openings or at the top of the wainscoting are very effective.

For floors either ceramic or quarry tiles may be used to good advantage. The small ceramics in colored designs make excellent kitchen floors, and in the other places mentioned the quarry tiles in rich browns make a lovely and, at the same time, serviceable floor.

It is possible to install tile in old houses without a great deal of trouble, and such operation can be financed under the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing administration.

BUILDER LAUDS MORTGAGE PLAN IN S. CAROLINA

Pleased With FHA Safeguards, Standards Provided Through FHA

ANDERSON, S. C.—Satisfaction with the safeguards provided by the Federal Housing administration's "single-mortgage system" and its general facility were expressed in a letter received from a local builder by the state director.

W. C. Guest, president of a local building firm, had the following comment to make on the Federal Housing administration's program:

"I wish to express our satisfaction with the manner in which you handled the examination and negotiations leading to the making of a loan by the Carolina Savings bank on our home and the insuring of this loan by the Federal Housing administration.

"Being in the building business, we knew that the loan agencies were unwilling to make a loan for less than around 7 per cent and that they were unwilling to let them run more than 6 to 10 years—and in most instances, in spite of the fact that building cost has been thoroughly liquidated, they were afraid to loan more than 50 to 60 per cent of appraised value.

"I felt that it would be very desirable to start building in the latter part of last year, and I then consulted the Federal Housing administration officials and the Architectural Forum and from the information obtained felt justified in going ahead with the construction with the expectations of securing a loan.

"When we applied for a loan through your office I was very pleasantly surprised to note that your organization has set up safeguards to be sure that the property insured by you is of a desirable character. Being in the building business I fully realize the advantage to the owner as well as to the party making the loan of having competent architectural inspection and competent real-estate appraisal, together with your scientific method of evaluating the property. If the same care were used in all loans, it would result in the elimination of poorly located and poorly constructed buildings, on which there have been severe losses for years.

"The construction industry has been very materially helped by the activities of the Federal Housing administration. The loans insured by the administration represent only a fraction of the actual benefit resulting because the 'ball was started rolling' by your organization which has inspired many property owners to make improvements.

"Since the housing administration started insuring loans some of the building and loan associations have lowered their rates and extended the length of their bond period. In this way the industry has benefited in a large measure."

Many Changes Of Standards In Past Decade

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Scarcely a single item in the specifications for a new home written 10 years ago could stand unaltered today, according to the Architectural Forum.

"Better products or better ways of using old ones have made over standard practice," according to the publication's editors. "Whether the late thirties house is wholly factory built, half factory built, or built entirely on the site, it will in all likelihood make concessions to fireproofness. It will also be insulated, and it will be filled with gadgetry which the public has been taught to demand in its houses as well as its automobiles.

"The outstanding item in mechanical equipment for the new house will be air conditioning and there is already evidence to support the belief that it will be the general rather than the exceptional in home equipment.

"In summing up the house of the future, each house will be a fulfillment of an individual family's needs and desires and that no one will be a general summary of the trend. The builder will be able to give the owner what he wants and ought to have at the price he can afford to pay."

BUILD KITCHENS AROUND EQUIPMENT

The "ideal kitchen" is built around all necessary equipment. After this factor is taken into consideration, floor space, windows, doors, and other stationary features may then be planned to conform most effectively with the general layout. This is readily done when a new home is being planned. Even in existing homes rearrangement or regrouping of equipment will frequently double convenience and efficiency. Funds for kitchen building or improvement are available at private financial institutions operating under the national housing act.

DOORWAY SWITCHES

There should be a switch for lighting control accessible to every doorway in the house. Every ceiling outlet should be switch controlled. When inserting an extra convenience outlet, it is a good idea to have switches put in that will prevent the necessity of reaching to overhead lights.

New Fittings Aid Shop Owners In Sales Campaign

Competition in retail selling is too keen today to depend upon outmoded store fittings. The merchant who is satisfied with the furniture, floor covering, show cases and decorations of a generation or even a decade ago will drop behind.

Much has been done in very recent times to revolutionize the showing of retail goods to present them attractively to the prospective purchaser.

Bright colors, in startling contrast to catch the eye and stimulate the imagination; benches and chairs of comfortable design with deep upholstery to encourage a longer visit.

Concealed lighting, to give a gentle general illumination with emphasizing brightness just at the right spot.

Show cases especially designed to display to the best possible advantage a particular article.

Parquet floors of contrasting woods in unusual designs, or carpets of linoleum or tiles that carry out the general scheme of decoration.

All these things are being extensively used, and the old-fashioned store with dark, heavily molded walls, dull nondescript floors, antiquated show cases, glaring lights improperly placed, and hard, uncomfortable furniture must take their places in the discard along with the high-wheel bicycle and hoop skirt.

RANGE CARE

When you get your nice, brand-new gas range don't let it get caked with grease. Clean the enameled surface every day with soap and water and then the grease will not harden. If you let the grease stay on the enamel, with constant baking it will get so hard nothing but a razor blade or even sand-paper or steel wool will touch it. Remove it while it is soft, and be sure the range is cool when you wash it; cold water on heated enamel may crack or chip it.

LOAN BODY ASKS INSURANCE PLAN

Association Intends To Recast All Mortages On Insured Basis

MAPLEWOOD, N. J.—Impressed with the liquidity of the Federal Housing administration insured mortgage, the Crestview Building and Loan association here has passed a resolution to apply for membership as an "exclusive" government-insured lending institution. The association expressed the intention of recasting all of their present mortgages.

In a letter to New Jersey headquarters of the housing administration the association stated:

"The officers and directors have been studying the present mortgage situation, realizing that without suitable means for the investment of funds the association would be faced with the possibility of slow liquidation. Although improvement is apparent in the residential building field, little, if any, of the requirements for financing are being met by building and loan associations.

"The many advantages of Federal Housing administration insured mortgages are obvious. The officers and directors of the Crestview Building and Loan association, therefore, have decided to apply for membership as an exclusive Federal Housing administration lending institution."

RESTAURANT COMFORT REQUIRES VENTILATION

A restaurant that is poorly ventilated is almost foredoomed to failure. Of course, there are exceptions—the "holes in the wall" in which certain types of patrons will put up with any inconvenience for the sake of "atmosphere"—but, generally speaking, the majority of diners or lunchers object to a heavy atmosphere that reeks of the kitchen.

If natural ventilation is absent, some sort of forced circulation must be used. The most effective is through ducts to the outside air, with powerful fans to draw out the odors. Such installations are sometimes out of the question for small establishments. However, in such cases ceiling or wall fans should be installed. There are many types of these that have been scientifically designed to give a maximum of circulation with a minimum of fan area.

In conjunction with these fans some sort of air-purifying equipment may be installed. There are such systems on the market that are comparatively inexpensive, and they go a long way toward eliminating cooking odors and "closeness" from the atmosphere. Such an investment may mean the difference between success and failure to many an establishment.

TILE-JOINT REPAIR

The joints between the wall tiles in a bathroom are pointed or filled with either plaster of paris or a cement paste. Around showers and over tubs and wherever else the tile is subjected to concentrated steam this filling is apt to drop out from time to time. Where this occurs the joints should be refilled with plaster of paris to keep water from collecting in the cracks and working down back of the tile.

Sunday services 11 a.m., Sunday school 9:30 a.m. Wednesday evening testimony meetings 8 o'clock. Reading room, 602 Ouachita National Bank building, open daily, except Sunday and holidays, 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The public is welcome to all services and the use of the reading room. "Truth" is the subject of the lesson sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, July 25, 1937. Among the citations which comprise the lesson sermon is the following from the Bible: "Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands. For the Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations." (Ps. 100). The lesson sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth is immortal; error is mortal. Truth is limitless; error is limited. Truth is intelligent; error is non-intelligent." (p. 466).

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue and South Third St.
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

The regular week-end services as usual. In our eagerness to carry-on in our outlined church program, it is possible that one thing is often forgotten. It is the hospitality of worship. It is said on one occasion when Robert Burns was feeling melancholy and desperately lonely, he drifted into a church—and drifted out again without having had a word or a hand of welcome. But before he left he scribbled this on the flyleaf of a hymnal:

"As cauld a wind as ever blew;
A cauld kirk, and in't but few;
As cauld a minister's e'er spak';
Ye'll all be hot ere I come back."

These lines stir both the fount of humor and sympathy. A welcome by God's people might have transformed life for this man. Oh, if Christians, Christ's followers would only remember that the stranger in their midst stands with them before the throne of grace. The statement "True worship has an open heart," may be accepted as truth today. As churches of the living God, may we not forget the stranger in our midst.

Hales, the lay-leader, conducted the prayer meeting last Wednesday evening and Mr. E. K. Reaves, general superintendent, will lead next Wednesday evening. The pastor and members of the congregation secured screen doors and repaired the window screens, and they now have a mosquito proof church. We cordially invite all our friends and members to come and worship with us.

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH
North Fourth and Glenmar Streets

The hours for Sunday worship are 7:30 and 9:30 a.m. Though in the circuit of the liturgical year, this Sunday is the ninth after Trinity Sunday, yet, because the church keeps the 25th of July in memory of St. James the Apostle, the Scriptures used are for St. James day. The Apostle called St. James the Great was the brother of St. John, and shared with him the name—"A Son of Thunder". He was a son of Zebedee, and drank first of all the Apostles, of his Master's cup of martydom, as his brother drank it latest. In the collect for St. James' day, his prompt obedience, and sacrifice of worldly interests, and affections, are made our example. He was admitted with St. Peter and St. John to the most sacred privacies of the Lord Jesus; and the cheerfulness in which he suffered death is said to have converted his accuser, who, breaking out into a confession of Christ, was beheaded with the same sword. The ecclesiastical color for the altar and vestments are red. The church is opened daily from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Come in rest, pray, give thanks, meditate. You are welcome.

SOMETHING IS RADICALLY ROTTEN

About built-up flat surface roofing on the half shell, regardless of who applies them. They are short lived, on an average of eight years' service.

Now these flat surface roofs are built with roofing felt saturated with asphalt oils. The roof is laid shingle fashioned; the plies of felt overlapping each other. Between these plies we have a mopping of hot asphalt the full width of the laps, which is 24 inches for a four-ply roof showing 8 inches to the weather, the plies of felt being 36 inches wide. After this process, the entire surface of the roof is mopped over. The asphalt between the plies of felt is the life of the roof—the plies of felt merely hold the asphalt in place. AND THE QUALITY OF THE ASPHALT IS THE SECRET OF SUCCESS AS TO THE LONG LIFE OF SUCH BUILT-UP ROOFS. All asphalts of all kinds manufactured from petroleum are as rotten as dirt itself. It has no fiber and is but dross to start with—refuse from the petroleum product.

Ninety-nine per cent of the roofing asphalt used in Monroe is of a petroleum product, and you know that gasoline, coal oil and petroleum products evaporate quickly. Out of the many roofs I have applied in Monroe, there is one on the Ouachita Bank, a common 4-ply shingle fashioned roof—10-years guarantee. It has given 17 years' service—and still keeps the money dry. I have never applied a single roof using petroleum asphalt that did not give trouble in less than ten years. And yet petroleum asphalt is being used exclusively because there is a difference of $15.00 a ton between Trinidad and Petroleum asphalts. I used Anchor Brand on the Ouachita Bank.

All smooth surface roofs should be painted every two years with Anchor Brand roof paint, applied without heating. You would not think of wearing a pair of boots ten years, day and night, without greasing them. Now the Dixie Roofing Co. and I ordered cars of Petroleum asphalt from Baton Rouge, La. Their drums of asphalt were labeled Johns-Manville, mine Continental—just one of many tricks in trade.

And now about shingle fashioned roofs of any kind: Don't you know the Supreme Architect specified feathers on a duck's back shingle fashioned? Scales on a fish shingle fashioned? And the hair on a dog's back shingle fashioned?

House-to-house canvassing—drive out the up trade. A single one-page roof advertisement in the Saturday Evening Post cost $12,000.00—automobiles, gasoline, hotel bills and other solicitors' expenses are added to the cost of the roof and you are the fall guy who pays the freight. The public know there is something rotten about roofs, and this write-up spills the beans. The shark salesman make a strong argument about a "guaranteed" felt. It is fire proof—place it in the stove and see.

And yet the Barrett Company and American Tar Products Company bend their roofs for 20 years, which are made of rag felt. Asbestos felt is fire proof, so why dwell on the fire question while trying to waterproof your house. I have on my desk a letter from the Standard Roofing Co. stating, "We are advertising the roofing material manufacturers and not making any money for ourselves."

There is no patent on Bird felt or asphalt or materials. I can furnish the same roof plies as any. The reason I have not applied any Bird roofs, I fear they might fly away. I will sell you what you demand—a short-lived roof if you say so, or one that will last long enough to grow whiskers—You pay for what you buy.

Coal tar, pitch, felt and gravel roofs are far superior to asphalt roofs of any kind, and Anchor Brand Trinidad Roofs are just as far ahead of petroleum asphalt roofs. I repeat it: Petroleum asphalt is not worth a roofer's dam. And yet I use it, because competition rises, and the public demands something cheap. Just like the fellow who ordered a cheap suit of clothes, sweated and went naked. YOU GET WHAT YOU PAY FOR. Some people want a bonded roof—keep the bond in the safe. Then, when it rains, spread the bond over the roof. Forget about Moses and the mortgaged Bonds, and learn how to keep dry when it rains.

Or we can also Repaint, Repaper or make small additions to your home under the "J. G. Bell" Finance plan.

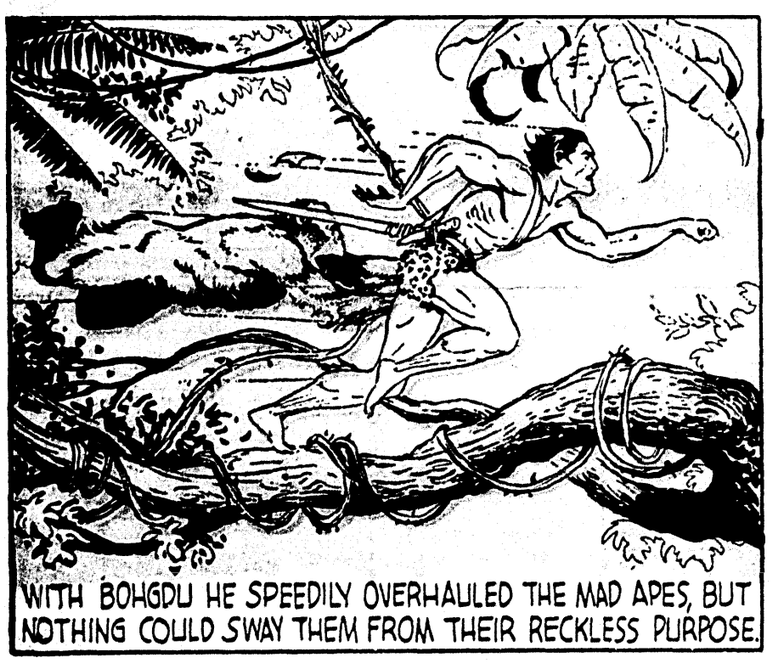
A DESPERATE CHANCE

WITH HEAVY HEART TARZAN WATCHED HIS BATTLE-CRAZED ALLIES SWING AWAY TO THEIR FOOLHARDY RAID.

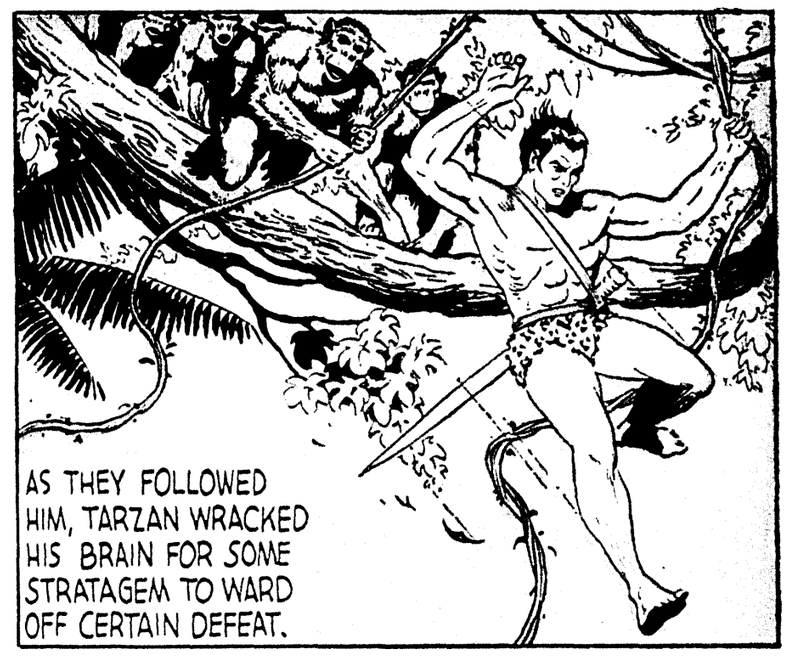
THEY HAD IGNORED HIS WARNING, DISOBEYED HIS ORDERS, BUT HE COULD NOT STAND BY WHILE THEY SPED TO DISASTER.

HE MUST STOP THEM—OR TAKE COMMAND OF THE RIOTOUS BAND AND SAVE AS MANY AS HE COULD FROM SLAUGHTER.



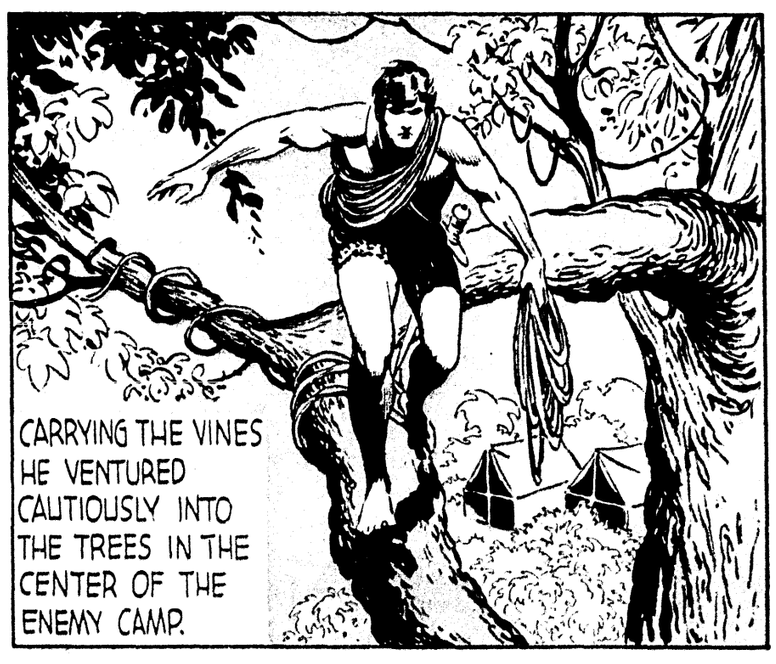
WITH BOHGDU HE SPEEDILY OVERHAULED THE MAD APES, BUT NOTHING COULD SWAY THEM FROM THEIR RECKLESS PURPOSE.

"THEN I WILL LEAD YOU," THE APE MAN SAID; "THOUGH MANY OF US WILL DIE!"



AS THEY FOLLOWED HIM, TARZAN WRACKED HIS BRAIN FOR SOME STRATAGEM TO WARD OFF CERTAIN DEFEAT.

HE HIT UPON A SCHEME. HALTING NEAR THE ENEMY CAMP HE COMMANDED THE APES TO GATHER LONG, PLIANT LIANAS.



CARRYING THE VINES HE VENTURED CAUTIOUSLY INTO THE TREES IN THE CENTER OF THE ENEMY CAMP.

BELOW, THE SOLDIERS AWAITED ANY MOVEMENT IN THESE TREES WHICH MIGHT BETRAY THE EXPECTED RAIDERS.

THE APES GREW IMPATIENT, MYSTIFIED BY THE ACTIONS OF TARZAN, WHO---

—CALMLY PURSUED HIS STRANGE TASK OF TYING THE VINES TO BRANCHES OF THE TREES KNOWING THAT--- —IF HE MADE ONE MISSTEP, THE GUNS BELOW WOULD SPEAK WITH TONGUES OF DEATH!

MARTYR MAID WHO SAVED FRANCE

COPR. 1937 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

TOWNS were fighting towns in France, early in the 15th century, and the English were molesting the French. In this turmoil, strange voices spoke to a 13-year-old peasant girl of Domremy. They told her to take up arms against the invader so that the Dauphin may become king of France.

Young Joan fled home, convinced the court and the church of her inspired mission, donned armor, and took command of the French army at Orleans. The soldiers fought desperately behind her, and at last drove the English from the city. Within three months the Dauphin was crowned king. Later, in a battle against the Burgundians, Joan was captured and turned over to the English.

Charged with witchcraft, Joan was forced to confess and was led to the stake. But the heap of faggots alarmed the girl, she mumbled some vague words of contrition, and was led back to jail for life imprisonment. But the clergy of Burgundy were not satisfied. They placed her male attire in her cell, in the hope she would don it and prove her confession false. She did, again was denounced, and this time she demanded that she be led to the pyre. On May 30, 1431, before clergy and people, Joan was burned.

In 1455 the martyr maid was pronounced innocent, and years later was canonized. In 1929, on the 500th anniversary of St. Joan's victory at Orleans, France issued a stamp in her honor.
